Hepatitis B and D Protocols Robert K. Hamatake, Johnson Y. N. Lau, 2008-02-02 Despite the availability of an effective vaccine there are still 400 million people worldwide who are chronically infected with hepatitis B virus HBV For them the vaccine as currently applied has no value Given the possible consequences of HBV infection the number of those chronically infected with HBV presents an enormous public health challenge For example the major etiology of hepatocellular carcinoma HCC is chronic infection with HBV Although fifth in cancer incidence worldwide HCC liver cancer is the third leading cause of cancer death The high mortality associated with HCC arises because the disease is often detected late and is unresponsive to treatment The number of deaths caused by PHCC is expected to rise over the next 20 years Those chronically infected with HBV have a life risk of death to HCC of between 10 and 25% Even the limited efficacy of drugs for the treatment of chronic HBV helps underscore the point that this disease is responsive to therapy Drugs that target the polymerase e g hepsara and lamivudine and interferon alpha represent two distinct strategies and show that both conventional antiviral and immunotherapeutic approaches can be used in management However the current inventory of therapeutics is inadequate Interferon alpha is of limited value only parenterally available and fraught with adverse reactions
