1. This year sugar prices have been more than 22 cents per pound, a thirty-year high. The higher prices can be attributed to the bad weather which adversely affected the crop in India, a major sugar producer. In Brazil, another major sugar-producing country, much of the sugar crop has gone to the production of ethanol. Using a demand and supply diagram, explain how these two factors have affected the world sugar price. Use another supply and demand diagram to illustrate and explain how the high sugar prices affect the price of processed foods (like those products manufactured by General Mills and Hershey's). (30 points)
2. One of the first laws signed by President Obama was an expansion of the State Children's Health Insurance Program (SCHIP). The law added $32.8 billion to expand coverage to include 4 million more children, including legal immigrants, with no waiting period. Using a demand and supply diagram, illustrate and explain the effect of the higher excise tax on the cigarette market. Will the tax simultaneously generate increased tax revenue and result in a drastic fall in smokers? Explain. (10 points)
3. Suppose the government imposes a $1 per unit excise tax on every firm in a perfectly competitive, constant-cost industry. Using a demand and supply diagram, illustrate and explain the short-run and long-run effects of the tax. Specifically mention what happens to the market price, the market output, the output of the typical firm, the profits of the typical firm and the number of firms, both in the short run and in the long run. (10 points)
4. Assume a profit-maximizing, pure monopoly is only earning normal profits. Draw the monopolist's demand curve, marginal revenue, average total cost curve and marginal cost curve depicting such a situation. Now assume the government imposes a $200 flat, lump-sum tax on the firm that must be paid whether the firm produces or not. Using your diagram, illustrate and explain how the tax affects the monopolist's profit-maximizing price and output in the short run. Holding everything else constant, what will the monopolist do in the long run? Explain. (10 points)
