Economics for Collaborative Environmental Management Graham Marshall, 2012-05-23 Marshall has re grafted economics to the philosophical roots of collaborative environmental management given stakeholders a pragmatic economics for bottom up conflict resolution and eliminated the need for top down economic experts Beautifully reasoned and wonderfully practical RICHARD B NORGAARD ENERGY AND RESOURCES PROGRAM UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA BERKELEY US If the potential of collaborative management is ever realized it will owe a debt to this book It provides a foundational economic theory of learning coming from complex adaptive systems thinking tested with field experience ALLAN SCHMID UNIVERSITY DISTINGUISHED PROFESSOR AGRICULTURAL ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY US Marshall argues that mainstream economics captive as it is of the prisoner s dilemma and the dangers of free riding is in a blind alley when it comes to contributing to constructive debate on governance of the commons This is a significant book which draws on the new institutional economics to indicate a productive way in which economists could contribute to thinking on common property natural resource management WARREN MUSGRAVE EMERITUS PROFESSOR OF AGRICULTURAL AND RESOURCE ECONOMICS UNIVERSITY OF NEW ENGLAND AUSTRALIA Economic thought and emerging collaborative environmental governance are important areas of thought and application but are mostly found at great distance from each other and very often in conflict Marshall not only clearly demonstrates why this is so he goes on to detail an alternative pathway that can strengthen both of these fields in both their theory and practice This is a most impressive feat and this is a book thoroughly deserving a very wide readership STEPHEN DOVERS SENIOR FELLOW AUSTRALIAN NATIONAL UNIVERSITY A valuable contribution to the burgeoning literature on voluntary collective action that demonstrates how processes can be designed to produce trust amongst stakeholders Marshall anchors theory in the common property resource governance literature that has challenged orthodox economics for the last 25 years and offers the prospect of productive relationships between users bureaucrats and funders MARK SPROULE JONES V K COPPS PROFESSOR MCMASTER UNIVERSITY CANADA Mainstream economics has a tight grip on public discourse yet remains poorly equipped to comprehend the collaborative vision for managing environmental and resource commons This ground breaking book diagnoses the weaknesses of mainstream economics in analysing collaborative and other decentralized approaches to environmental management and presents a unique operational approach to how collaborative environmental governance might be brought to fruition in a variety of contexts whether in industrialized or developing countries The result is a powerful useful and badly needed approach to economics for collaborative environmental management of the commons

Robinson, Bruce Taylor, 2009 Leading researchers critically review Australia's environmental management over the past decade Sustainable Resource Use Alex Smajgl, Silva Larson, 2012 The way that humans organize both resource access and resource use is vital to the management of natural resources Within different contexts institutional arrangements such as the rules of common and private property rights become levers by which human behaviours can be modified and steered towards the goals of sustainable natural resource management Featuring contributions from leading thinkers in the field this groundbreaking volume examines institutional dynamics from the perspective of natural resource management The book is organized into four parts The first discusses institutional diversity and contextual change Following this institutional misfit is analysed with a strong focus on the long term impacts of colonial structures in the Asia Pacific region The book then discusses experiences with institutional dynamics in order to ease the tension of such misfits before examining future research needs Ultimately through careful argument and by deploying original research the authors make the case that institutional arrangements cannot be perceived as a set of parameters that can be optimized and locked in for the most efficient functioning of a system nor can institutions be evaluated outside the context in which they were developed This is powerful thought provoking and important reading for academics researchers policy makers and professionals in resource institutional and environmental economics and land use planning and policy across the full range of natural resource sectors from forestry to agriculture Published with CSIRO Cover image Blue Flower of Life c Theresa J Richardson 2006 Changing Land Management David Pannell, Frank Vanclay, 2011-03-01 There is a rich and extensive history of research into factors that encourage farmers to change their land management practices or inhibit them from doing so Yet this research is often under utilised in practice Changing Land Management provides key insights from past and cutting edge research to support decision makers as they attempt to influence or assist rural communities adapting to changed circumstances such as new technologies new environmental imperatives new market opportunities or changed climate Understanding the process of practice change by rural landholders is crucial for policy makers agricultural researchers extension agents natural resource management bodies non government organisations and agricultural consultants For

Paul Durrenberger, 2011-12-01 Presenting prehistoric historic and ethnographic data from Mongolia China Iceland Mexico Brazil and the United States The Anthropological Study of Class and Consciousness offers a first step toward examining class as a central issue within anthropology Contributors to this volume use the methods of historical materialism cultural ecology and political ecology to understand the realities of class and how they evolve Five central ideas unify the collection the objective basis for class in different social orders people s understanding of class in relation to race and gender the relation of ideologies of class to realities of class the U S managerial middle class denial of class and emphasis on meritocracy in relation to increasing economic insecurity and personal responses to economic insecurity and their political implications Anthropologists who want to understand the nature and dynamics of culture must also understand the nature and dynamics of class The Anthropological Study of Class and Consciousness addresses the role of the concept of class as an analytical construct in anthropology and how it relates to culture Although issues of social hierarchy have been studied in anthropology class has not often been considered as a central element Yet a better understanding of its role in shaping culture consciousness and people s awareness of their social and natural world would in turn lead to better understanding of major trends in social evolution as well as contemporary society This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of anthropology labor studies ethnohistory and sociology

The Routledge Handbook of the Political Economy of Health and Healthcare David Primrose, Rodney D. Loepky, Robin Chang, 2024-02-28 This handbook provides a comprehensive and critical overview of the gamut of contemporary issues around health and healthcare from a political economy perspective Its contributions present a unique challenge to prevailing economic accounts of health and healthcare which narrowly focus on individual behaviour and market processes. Instead, the capacity of the human body to reach its full potential and the ability of society to prevent disease and cure illness are demonstrated to be shaped by a broader array of political economic processes. The material conditions in which societies produce, distribute, exchange, consume and reproduce, and the operation of power relations therein, influence all elements of human health, from food consumption and workplace safety to inequality, healthcare and housing, and even the biophysical conditions in which humans live. This volume explores these concerns across five sections. First, it introduces and critically engages with a variety of established and cutting edge theoretical perspectives in political economy to conceptualise health and healthcare from neoclassical and behavioural economics to Marxist and feminist approaches. The next two sections extend these insights to evaluate the neoliberalisation of health and healthcare over the past 40 years, highlighting their individualisation and commodification by the capitalist state and powerful corporations. The fourth section examines the diverse manifestation of these dynamics across a range of geographical contexts. The volume concludes with a section devoted to outlining more progressive health and healthcare arrangements which transcend the limitations of both neoliberalism and capitalism. This volume will be an indispensable reference work for students and scholars of political economy, health policy and politics, health economics, health geography, the sociology of health and other health related disciplines. Chapters 1-8 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons CC BY-NC-ND 4.0 license.

This book explores global environmental negotiations against the backdrop of complex political relations, the climate change conventions and multilateral environmental assessments and their effect on special interest groups. It weaves in the story of India's emergent economy, its sustainable development and the multifaceted nationhood, the diversity of its rural scene and the challenges of seamlessness brought in by the power of its information technology. Viewing global environmental movements, the book discusses the pattern of global negotiations from the environmental summit capitals of the world: Rio, Kyoto, Cartagena, Bonn, Stockholm, Montreal, Geneva, Basel and Copenhagen, among others, to graphically portray the plight of a post-modern world that grapples with the problems of climate, land degradation, chemical transfers and biodiversity.
