Fisheries Subsidies, Sustainable Development and the WTO Anja von Moltke, 2014-10-14 The fisheries sector is in crisis Inappropriate subsidies to the fishing industry are a key factor responsible for worldwide fisheries depletion overcapitalization and ecosystem degradation There is an urgent need for an international mechanism to promote the appropriate restructuring of fisheries subsidies in order to create a more sustainable industry In recent years the leading international forum charged with providing such a mechanism has been the World Trade Organization WTO This book explains why and how the reform of fisheries subsidies has become one of the most concrete and potentially successful international efforts to achieve global environmental economic and developmental policy coherence It describes the history and current status of the discussions at the WTO drawing on UNEP s key documents and reflecting on the major issues Accompanying the book are downloadable resources containing full text versions of the most important source material used in the publication The book is aimed at a broad stakeholder audience including policymakers in the fields of trade fisheries environmental economics and international environmental governance as well as academics and others looking for an overview of the fisheries subsidies issue and an introduction to its technical components Published with the United Nations Environment Programme UNEP

Fisheries Subsidies under International Law Chen-Ju Chen, 2010-09-17 Subsidies to fisheries have been in existence for centuries However these remained outside the spotlight of the international community until the turn of this century when the negative effects that fisheries subsidies have on international trade the environment and sustainable development became increasingly clear As a result the Doha Round Negotiations set the parameters for an effective fisheries subsidies regime WTO Members thus embarked in intensive negotiations with the collaboration of various international organizations These negotiations culminated with publication of the legal text of the Chairman of the Negotiating Group on Rules in 2007 which reflects to a large extent the mandates of the Ministerial Conferences and reconciles the diverse interests of the negotiators The EU as a major WTO Member and with its own Common Fisheries Policy which has been in effect for a number of years can serve as the basis for comparison and improvement of the proposed regulations

Agreement on Fisheries Subsidies Mitchell Lennan, Stephanie Switzer, 2022 After great anticipation at the 12th Ministerial Conference in June 2022 Members of the World Trade Organization WTO reached a historic Agreement on Fisheries Subsidies that aims to contribute to the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals This article first provides the necessary background of the two decades building up to the conclusion of the Agreement After a general overview of the Agreement we then examine key provisions of the Agreement namely the prohibition of subsidies to 1 illegal unreported and unregulated fishing 2 the fishing of overexploited stocks and 3 fisheries on the high seas outwith the competence of regional fisheries management organisations We also pay attention to the provisions on special and differential treatment in favour of developing and least developed countries as well as notable procedural and institutional features We conclude by highlighting the remaining issues still to be addressed at the WTO The Sustainability Revolution in International Trade Agreements, 2024-09-05 Once seen as aspirational and relatively innocuous sustainability or sustainable development provisions are now changing the face of international trade agreements The Sustainability Revolution in International Trade Agreements gathers fundamental first hand analyses of these novel commitments across dozens of agreements considering their legal political and economic aspects Drawing on perspectives from different parts of the world and engaging experts in the law and practice of sustainability provisions this volume offers a comprehensive assessment of the latest developments and innovations in international trade agreements It also evaluates the development challenges that sustainability requirements pose for countries with limited resources and capacity for whom lower labour and environmental regulatory costs have been a competitive asset The present volume explores the intersectional aspects of sustainability such as gender equality biodiversity animal welfare and Indigenous rights in addition to the more traditional dimensions of sustainability namely economic development environmental conservation and improvement of labour standards There is little doubt that a sustainability revolution in global production patterns is needed Considering the details of its operation how it can come into being who will bear the increased production costs and how decisions on difficult trade offs will be made reveals the immense challenges involved in developing a new international law for sustainable trade Read together the chapters in this volume outline the contours this emerging legal framework examine its practical operation and offer important reflections upon the real extent and the foreseeable consequences of this sustainability revolution in international trade agreements

WTO Negotiations on Fisheries Subsidies: What's the State of Play, Trade and Environment Governance at the World Trade Organization Committee on Trade and Environment Manuel Teehankee, 2020-06-11 In the opinion of many the most crucial issue confronting the world today lies in achieving a sustainable nexus among global trade economic development and the environment This book written by a prominent diplomat with extensive direct experience in this field presents a much needed critical perspective on the conflict of norms among the three policy regimes focusing on the dilemma of reconciling approaches regarding harmonized global governance and a more diverse community based approach It is the first and only in depth treatment to systematically study a series of deliberations in the World Trade Organization's Committee on Trade and Environment CTE highlighting perspectives taken by both developed and developing economies The book demonstrates that the CTE's contributions to the evolving trade and environment policy framework have been contrary to popular perception both substantial and relevant In his review of how the particular characteristics of twenty key work outputs of the CTE impact current practice in trade and environment policy discussions the author discusses such key issues and topics as the following a singular harmonized global governance framework versus the centrifugal force of community based localized or regional solutions that emphasize diversity and multifaceted institution building drawbacks and continuing relevance of the CTE Work Agenda issues related to carbon intellectual property rights and services market access for environmental goods requirements for environmental purposes relating to products including standards and technical regulations packaging labeling and recycling and ways forward for combining global regimes with local solutions in an environmental context Given the urgent need for making economic policies more coherent with sustainability and environmental goals and for overcoming the ongoing stalemate between developed and developing countries on this matter this book is sure to be warmly welcomed by policy makers and negotiators in the areas of both trade and environment as well as by academics theorists and experts in the field of global governance interested in formulating practical approaches to trade and environment governance and minimizing potential policy conflicts
