

FLAC3D™ VERSION 9.0

Continuum Modeling for Geomechanics in 3D

SOLVE YOUR MOST COMPLEX GEOTECHNICAL PROBLEMS

FLAC3D is the best solution to solve complex geotechnical problems for three-dimensional analyses of soil, rock, concrete, structural ground support, and groundwater flow. Options can be added to expand analyses (dynamic, creep, thermal, and IMASS) and to create user-defined constitutive models (UDMs). FLAC3D 9 has an improved user interface (UI) and new interactive tools to construct and interpret models easily. FLAC3D provides an incredibly accurate simulation of real-world geotechnical conditions for engineering applications, such as slope stability, underground excavation behavior, and earthquake simulations¹. Flexible commands and scripting allow for model parameterization, flexibility, customization, and automation. With FLAC3D, the only modeling limitation is your imagination.

EASE-OF-USE

- Interactively create models from CAD files (DXF, STL), sketching, or images
- Automatic structured and unstructured mesh generation
- Extrude linearly and along curves new
- Skinning to automatically identify model boundaries to set boundary conditions
- Interactively assign groups, constitutive models, and properties/distributions
- Built-in database to save/import/export material properties new
- Automatic stress initialization
- Intuitive commands are easy to learn
- Most UI interactions are automatically translated into commands, which can be saved to a datafile and re-used
- Built-in help / command auto-complete
- Advanced built-in text editor makes creating and running models simple
- With Version 9's common UI, seamlessly move between programs or easily couple to other Itasca software²

FLAC3D 9 features a new user interface (UI) where you can file plots, data files, and panes. It shares this with other Version 9 Itasca software, making it easy to switch between them or seamlessly work with them all in the same UI.

EVEN FASTER

- New solution optimization enables 40% faster static modeling and dynamic time steps up to 2.6x larger than before new
- Multi-threaded to utilize the full power of your computer for faster solutions
- Multi-threaded FISH Lists and Operators to query or modify the model incredibly quickly, even while cycling
- New Maxwell damping for 10-200x faster performance for dynamic¹ models new
- Faster implicit solvers for fluid flow and thermal calculations new
- Fast analytical temperature calculation for specified sources new

A new concrete constitutive model and non-linear structural elements (ground support) have been added to FLAC3D 9. Here you can see a section through a shaft lined with concrete which is yielding and an inner steel liner that is buckling.

Not shown are the outer rock mass or the deformable grout between the liner and the concrete ring.
