The Roots of Morality Maxine Sheets-Johnstone, 2008-12-12 This book argues the case for a foundationalist ethics centrally based on an empirical understanding of human nature For Maxine Sheets Johnstone an ethics formulated on the foundations of anything other than human nature hence on anything other than an identification of pan cultural human realities lacks solid empirical moorings It easily loses itself in isolated hypotheticals reductionist scenarios or theoretical abstractions in the prisoner s dilemma selfish genes dedicated brain modules evolutionary altruism or psychological egoism for example or it easily becomes itself an ethical system over and above the ethics it formulates such as the deontological ethics of Kantian categorical imperatives the utilitarianism of Bentham and Mill or the ethics of care Taking her cue from Hume especially his Treatise on Human Nature where he grounds the moral sense in human nature seen as always in tension between the natural tendencies of selfish acquisitiveness and sympathy for others Sheets Johnstone pursues her phenomenological investigation of the natural basis of human morality by directing her attention first in Part I to what is traditionally considered the dark side of human nature and then in Part II to the positive side The tension between the two calls for an interdisciplinary therapeutic resolution which she offers in the Epilogue by arguing for the value of a moral education that enlightens humans about their own human nature highlighting both the socialization of fear and the importance of play and creativity technological world Happiness unhappiness good bad God Devil all exist as One Despite the teachings of spiritual gurus and masters life fails to give us the much needed solace Something remains missing The mind with its constant chatter and habit of delving into past experiences or anxieties about the future does not permit us to live in the present moment in awareness of the now By the time the mind registers this moment it has already passed and a new now has taken its place In this final volume the author delves into a deeper existence where through experiential realization we are able to go beyond the mind with its dual thoughts to a state of higher consciousness He shows us methods we can use to attain this state and thus enter the no mind zone the experience of which takes us to our core centralizing the extremes of duality and helping us attain awareness of being one with the Universe      Putnam's Monthly ,1908      Putnam's & the Reader ,1908
