Clinton, Andrew A. Tawfik, Amy Grincewicz, Matthew Schmidt, 2020-04-09 This book is the outcome of a research symposium sponsored by the Association for Educational Communications and Technology AECT Consisting of twenty four chapters including an introduction and conclusion it argues that informational content should not be the main element of education and that to provide more for learners it is necessary to go beyond content and address other skills and capabilities It also discusses the false premise that learning is complete when the information is known not when learners seek more their own directions answers and ideas The authors assert that the ability to synthesize solve problems and generate ideas is not based on specific content although education often focuses solely on teaching content Further they state that content can be separated from the learning process and that instructional design and educational technology must be about the skills habits and beliefs to be learned Educational Technology and the New World of Persistent Learning Bailey, Liston W., 2019-01-18 Technologies such as artificial intelligence and augmented and mixed reality continue to be implemented to support the process of teaching and learning However technological advances and new applications should not be seen as a replacement for the requisite consideration of proper needs analysis instructional design and educational philosophy within courses or training rather it should serve as an enabler to allow faster and more open access to learning for individuals Educational Technology and the New World of Persistent Learning provides innovative insights into technology integration methods within classroom settings including how they can empower students and how they can be used in the creation of dynamic learning experiences The content within this publication examines e learning robotics and tutoring systems and is designed for academicians educators principles administrators researchers and students Technology and Education Brendan Alan Bailey, 1999 Emergent Practices and Material Conditions in Learning and Teaching with Technologies Teresa Cerratto Pargman, Isa Jahnke, 2019-03-21 This book explores the complexities of interacting with digital technologies in the everyday flow of practices in schools museums and the home In particular the authors pay attention to the material conditions of such practices via the exploration of media discourses on information and communication technologies in the classroom the ongoing digitization of the school the use of video chat for language learning the instantiation of CrossActionSpaces in an urban science classrooms the development of symbolic technologies such as the Carbon Footprint Calculator the design of apps and virtual museums for learning science the use of text message tools for collaborative learning in teacher education and the design implementation and evaluation of Augmented Reality apps in outdoor learning The book is grounded in case studies presented by scholars at the workshop Changing Teaching and Learning Practices in Schools with Tablet Mediated Collaborative Learning Nordic European and International Views and the workshop Emergent Practices and Material Conditions in Tablet mediated Collaborative Learning and Teaching both of which have been held at the Computer Supported Collaborative Learning conference CSCL This volume brings together inspirational and high quality chapters that raise a range of important ideas and showcase the importance of looking beyond technology enhanced learning Taken together this volume unpacks a variety of everyday situations by engaging with what is really happening with digital technologies rather than what is expected to happen with them in educational settings The take away message is a call for research on learning teaching and digital technologies that enables engagement with the materiality of educational practices and in particular their constitutive relationships that configure the contemporary educational practices of the digital age Technology Supported Active Learning Carlos Vaz de Carvalho,Merja Bauters,2021-07-14 This book promotes student centered approaches to the learning process allowing students to develop skills and competences that traditional passive learning methods cannot foster In turn supporting active learning with digital technology tools creates new possibilities in terms of pedagogical design and implementation This book addresses the latest research and practice in the use of technology to promote active learning As such on the one hand it focuses on active pedagogical methodologies like problem based learning design thinking and agile approaches on the other it presents best practice cases on the use of digital environments to support these methodologies Readers will come to understand and learn to apply active learning methodologies either by replicating the best practices presented here or by creating their own methods Educational Technology Karin Moyano Camihort,2005 Handbook of Research on Educational Technology Integration and Active Learning Keengwe, Jared,2015-05-31 As today s teachers prepare to instruct a new generation of students the question is no longer whether technology should be integrated into the classroom but only how Forced to combat shorter attention spans and an excess of stimuli teachers sometimes see technology as a threat rather than a potential enhancement to traditional teaching methods The Handbook of Research on Educational Technology Integration and Active Learning explores the need for new professional development opportunities for teachers and educators as they utilize emerging technologies to enhance the learning experience Highlighting the advancements of ubiquitous computing authentic learning and student centered instruction this book is an essential reference source for educators academics students researchers and librarians

Learning First, Technology Second in Practice Liz Kolb, 2020-05-28 Building on the bestselling Learning First Technology Second this book helps teachers choose technology tools and instructional strategies based on an understanding of how students learn After observing teachers and students interact with technology over many years Liz Kolb began to wonder While students attention levels are high when they use digital devices how can we move them to an equally high level of commitment to their learning tasks Her extensive research into this question led to the development of the Triple E Framework in which the learning goal not the tool is the most important element of a given lesson With this understanding this book extends the ideas from Learning First Technology Second offering An overview of the popular and highly regarded Triple E Framework A compelling myth vs reality format through which to apply the research and strategies tied to the Triple E Framework A step by step process for instructional designers and tech coaches to use the framework with classroom teachers for better lesson design Twelve authentic lessons designed by K-12 teachers to meet all three elements of the Triple E Framework with suggestions on how to improve lessons with technology Examples of how two schools have systematically integrated the framework across their district For Learning First Technology Second readers this book builds on their knowledge providing new research scenarios cases and ideas for using technology in education For readers new to the framework this book provides all of the essential research and tools mentioned above along with an overview of the framework so they can apply what they learn without missing a beat

Minds Online Michelle D. Miller, 2014-10-20 From wired campuses to smart classrooms to massive open online courses MOOCs digital technology is now firmly embedded in higher education But the dizzying pace of innovation combined with a dearth of evidence on the effectiveness of new tools and programs challenges educators to articulate how technology can best fit into the learning experience Minds Online is a concise nontechnical guide for academic leaders and instructors who seek to advance learning in this changing environment through a sound scientific understanding of how the human brain assimilates knowledge Drawing on the latest findings from neuroscience and cognitive psychology Michelle Miller explores how attention memory and higher thought processes such as critical thinking and analytical reasoning can be enhanced through technology aided approaches The techniques she describes promote retention of course material through frequent low stakes testing and practice and help prevent counterproductive cramming by encouraging better spacing of study Online activities also help students become more adept with cognitive aids such as analogies that allow them to apply learning across situations and disciplines Miller guides instructors through the process of creating a syllabus for a cognitively optimized fully online course She presents innovative ideas for how to use multimedia effectively how to take advantage of learners existing knowledge and how to motivate students to do their best work and complete the course For a generation born into the Internet age educational technology designed with the brain in mind offers a natural pathway to the pleasures and rewards of deep learning
