Immigration and Ellis Island

The greatest mass movement of people in history occurred between 1890 and 1950. During that time, more than twenty million people immigrated from Europe to the United States. People left their homelands for many reasons. Immigrants left their homelands "pushed" because of political persecution, religious persecution, and poverty. A pull factor drew to the U.S. for adventure or the desire for change. People also immigrate to go to places where they think they will have a better "pull" factor for themselves and their families compared with their homelands.

- 2. Punctuation
- 3. Spelling
- 4. Language
