Excursions into Syntactic Databases Hans van Halteren, 2025-02-10 This book is about syntactic databases a k a treebanks collections of text material in which the syntactic relations have been made visible It starts off with a general introduction to the subject and then continues with three in depth investigations of more specialized aspects In the introduction syntactic databases are first placed in the larger context of linguistic databases text collections with a broader linguistic annotation than just a syntactic one Then some examples of syntactic databases are given illustrating the range of annotation actually encountered The introduction is completed with an investigation of database management systems for syntactic databases The first in depth investigation concerns the treatment of ambiguous structures in syntactic analysis trees focussing on a very efficient representation for such structures and the means to create this representation Next classroom use of syntactic databases is examined A computer program for this purpose CLUES is discussed along with a suggested series of syntax exercises The final subject is the importance of including function and attribute information in the annotation of texts The central line of investigation here is a probabilistic parsing experiment in which the use of function and attribute information is the main variable Medical Writing Minna Vihla, 1999 Using data from a new corpus of contemporary American medical texts Vihl analyzes modal expressions such as may must and possibly as they are used in medical English She thinks that knowing how modal expressions are distributed and their pragmatic functions in the texts can help when teaching professional writing to non native speakers and clarify how language is institutionally situated Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR Official Gazette of the United States Patent and Trademark Office, 1999 Language International, 1996 Scientific and Technical Aerospace Reports, 1992 Official Gazette of the United States Patent and Trademark Office United States.
