Elite Game Manual:

Retrogame Archeology John Aycock, 2016-05-09 Drawing on extensive research this book explores the techniques that old computer games used to run on tightly constrained platforms Retrogame developers faced incredible challenges of limited space computing power rudimentary tools and the lack of homogeneous environments Using examples from over 100 retrogames this book examines the clever implementation tricks that game designers employed to make their creations possible documenting these techniques that are being lost However these retrogame techniques have modern analogues and applications in general computer systems not just games and this book makes these contemporary connections It also uses retrogames implementation to introduce a wide variety of topics in computer systems including memory management interpretation data compression procedural content generation and software protection Retrogame Archeology targets professionals and advanced level students in computer science engineering and mathematics but would also be of interest to retrogame enthusiasts computer historians and game studies researchers in the humanities Now the Chips Are Down

Alison Gazzard, 2024-05-21 The story of a pioneering microcomputer its beginnings as part of a national Computer Literacy Project its innovative hardware and its creative uses In 1982 the British Broadcasting Corporation launched its Computer Literacy Project intended to introduce interested adults to the world of computers and computing The BBC accompanied this initiative with television programs courses books and software an early experiment in multi platform education The BBC along with Acorn Computers also introduced the BBC Microcomputer which would be at the forefront of the campaign The BBC Micro was designed to meet the needs of users in homes and schools to demystify computing and to counter the general pessimism among the media in Britain about technology In this book Alison Gazzard looks at the BBC Micro examining the early capabilities of multi platform content generation and consumption and the multiple literacies this approach enabled not only in programming and software creation but also in accessing information across a range of media and in do it yourself computing She links many of these early developments to current new media practices Gazzard looks at games developed for the BBC Micro including Granny s Garden an educational game for primary schools and Elite the seminal space trading game She considers the shift in focus from hardware to peripherals describing the Teletext Adapter as an early model for software distribution and the Domesday Project which combined texts video and still photographs as a hypermedia like experience Gazzard s account shows the BBC Micro not only as a vehicle for various literacies but also as a user oriented machine that pushed the boundaries of what could be achieved in order to produce something completely new Encyclopedia of Video Games
