Boundaries of the Self Debalina Banerjee, 2014-06-02 This book addresses the intersections between gender and identity by critically examining female spaces It has famously been argued that men and women are made in culture As such this volume explores how spaces social political cultural historical and even cyber affect the creative personal urban and global identities of women The scholarly approaches of the contributors here probe into these spaces and analyze the problematic of gender identities as they are constructed reconstructed or deconstructed through processes of appropriation subversion and signification The functional politics of patriarchy influences a range of networks that include social cultural political and religious archetypes This book will open new vistas in women s studies through dialogues and discussions on the various facets of Space and how in turn they generate the rhetoric of agency and power or again how they annihilate attempts at emancipation and empowerment Furthermore the book explores the diversity of women s experiences and their contributions across cultures and examines knowledge and practices in the light of gender differences suggesting new ways to conceptualize the relations between the self and the ever changing global communities Its interdisciplinary nature drawing on the humanities arts social sciences will give it a wide readership among students teachers and researchers In addition since women s studies is one of the most sought after academic disciplines of the contemporary academic world this book will generate interest and contribute to the dynamic nature of women s studies research Handbook on the Globalisation of Agriculture Guy M. Robinson, Doris A. Carson, 2015-06-29 This Handbook provides insights to the ways in which globalisation is affecting the whole agri food system from farms to the consumer It covers themes including the physical basis of agriculture the influence of trade policies the nature of globalis The Wiley-Blackwell Companion to Human Geography John A. Agnew, James S. Duncan, 2011-03-01 This volume provides an up to date authoritative synthesis of the discipline of human geography Unparalleled in scope the companion offers an indispensable overview to the field representing both historical and contemporary perspectives Edited and written by the world s leading authorities in the discipline Divided into three major sections Foundations the history of human geography from Ancient Greece to the late nineteenth century The Classics the roots of modern human geography Contemporary Approaches current issues and themes in human geography Each contemporary issue is examined by two contributors offering distinctive perspectives on the same theme Gender and Global Restructuring Marianne H. Marchand, Anne Sisson Runyan, 2010-09-13 In this new edition of this best selling text interdisciplinary feminist experts from around the world provide new analyses of the ongoing relationship between gender and neoliberal globalization under the new imperialism in the post 9 11 context Divided into Sightings Sites and Resistances this book examines the disciplining politics of race sexuality and modernity under securitized globalization including case studies on domestic workers in Hong Kong heteronormative development policies and responses to the crisis of social reproduction and colonizing responses to AIDS in sub Saharan Africa migration human rights and citizenship including studies on remittances the emergence of neoliberal subjectivities among rural Mexican women Filipina migrant workers and women s labor organizing in the Middle East and North Africa feminist resistance incorporating the latest scholarship on transnational feminism and feminist critical globalization movement activism including case studies on men s violence on the Mexico US border pan indigenous women s movements and cyberfeminism Providing a coherent and challenging approach to the issues of gender and the processes of globalization in the new millennium this important text will be of interest to students and scholars of IPE international relations economics development and gender studies

Rethinking Global Governance Justin Jennings, 2023-05-09 This book argues that long ignored non western political systems from the distant and more recent past can provide critical insights into improving global governance These societies show how successful collective action can occur by dividing sovereignty consensus building power from below and other mechanisms For a better tomorrow we need to free ourselves of the colonial constraints on our political imagination A pandemic war in Europe and another year of climatic anomalies are among the many indications of the limits of global governance today To meet these challenges we must look far beyond the status quo to the thousands of successful mechanisms for collective action that have been cast aside a priori because they do not fit into Western traditions of how people should be organized Coming from long past or still enduring societies often dismissed as savages and primitives until well into the twentieth century the political systems in this book were often seen as too acephalous compartmentalized heterarchical or anarchic to be of use Yet as globalization makes international relations more chaotic long ignored governance alternatives may be better suited to today s changing realities Understanding how the Zulu Trypillian Alur and other collectives worked might be humanity s best hope for survival This book will be of interest both to those seeking to apply archaeological and ethnographic data to issues of broad contemporary concern and to academics politicians policy makers students and the general public seeking possible alternatives to conventional thinking in global governance

Urban Policies and the Right to the City Bernard Jouve, 2009      Tourism Recreation Research , 2007      The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells, 2006      International Review of Modern Sociology , 2008      Creative Destruction Tyler Cowen, 2009-01-10 A Frenchman rents a Hollywood movie A Thai schoolgirl mimics Madonna Saddam Hussein chooses Frank Sinatra s My Way as the theme song for his fifty fourth birthday It is a commonplace that globalization is subverting local culture But is it helping as much as it hurts In this strikingly original treatment of a fiercely debated issue Tyler Cowen makes a bold new case for a more sympathetic understanding of cross cultural trade Creative

Destruction brings not stale suppositions but an economist's eye to bear on an age-old question: Are market exchange and aesthetic quality friends or foes? On the whole, argues Cowen in clear and vigorous prose, they are friends. Cultural destruction breeds not artistic demise but diversity. Through an array of colorful examples from the areas where globalization's critics have been most vocal, Cowen asks what happens when cultures collide through trade, whether technology destroys native arts, why and whether Hollywood movies rule the world, whether globalized culture is dumbing down societies everywhere, and if national cultures matter at all. Scrutinizing such manifestations of indigenous culture as the steel band ensembles of Trinidad, Indian handweaving, and music from Zaire, Cowen finds that they are more vibrant than ever, thanks largely to cross-cultural trade. For all the pressures that market forces exert on individual cultures, diversity typically increases within society even when cultures become more like each other. Trade enhances the range of individual choice, yielding forms of expression within cultures that flower as never before. While some see cultural decline as a half-empty glass, Cowen sees it as a glass half full with the stirrings of cultural brilliance. Not all readers will agree, but all will want a say in the debate: this exceptional book will stir.
