The Second World War in the Twenty-First-Century Museum Stephan Jaeger, 2020-02-24

The Second World War is omnipresent in contemporary memory debates As the war fades from living memory this study is the first to systematically analyze how Second World War museums allow prototypical visitors to comprehend and experience the past It analyzes twelve permanent exhibitions in Europe and North America including the Bundeswehr Military History Museum in Dresden the Museum of the Second World War in Gdańsk the House of European History in Brussels the Imperial War Museums in London and Manchester and the National WWII Museum in New Orleans in order to show how museums reflect and shape cultural memory as well as their cognitive ethical emotional and aesthetic potential and effects This includes a discussion of representations of events such as the Holocaust and air warfare In relation to narrative memory and experience the study develops the concept of experientiality on a sliding scale between mimetic and structural forms which provides a new textual spatial method for reading exhibitions and understanding the experiences of historical individuals and collectives It is supplemented by concepts like transnational memory empathy and encouraging critical thinking through difficult knowledge

European Union--the Second Founding Ludger Kühnhardt, 2008 The author is presenting a broadly structured study about the first fifty years of European integration its geopolitical context and academic reflection His study is based on the two fold thesis that since a few years the European Union is going through a process of its Second

Founding while simultaneously changing its rationale      Unity in Diversity Michael Herslund, Ramona Samson, 2005 The overall themes of this book are past and present changes in European cooperation Two such changes were at the top of the agenda in the summer of 2004 the Eastern enlargement and the constitutional treaty A way to interpret these changes is to look at them as manifestations of the two core concepts diversity and unity The combination of the concept of unity with the apparently contrasting notion of diversity the two extremes of a scale seems to amount to a contradiction But that is exactly the nature of European cooperation How to overcome this contradiction and make it fruitful and productive is the challenge faced by the nations of Europe in the 21st Century The different chapters address different aspects of this challenge from the problems faced by new member states of Central Europe via the long and tortuous road towards a common European constitution and popular Euro scepticism to the role of Europe in the world as mirrored by its relations with the United States of America Enlargement and constitutional treaty are the two keywords of the European Union in the 21st century And they incarnate the two notions of diversity and unity They both constitute major changes in the architecture of the European Union The first change enlargement is a major step towards the overall goal of uniting all of Europe of making the map of the Union congruent with that of geographical Europe What began as a mere economic cooperation between six West European countries now almost covers the whole continent from the Atlantic to the Russian border The chapters are the written versions of six of the lectures given at an international summer university under the theme Europe and the European Union a Scenario for the Future held at Copenhagen Business School The seminar was organized as a cooperation between the Centre for the Study of Europe at CBS and the European Studies Program at Malm University under the auspices of the Oeresund University      The Challenges of Nation-building in the Twenty-first Century J.
