Abuse of EU Law and Regulation of the Internal Market Alexandre Saydé, 2014-12-01 How can the concept of abuse of European Union law which can be defined as undesirable choice of law artificially made by a private citizen generate so much disagreement among equally intelligent individuals Seeking to transcend the classical debate between its supporters and adversaries the present study submits that the concept of abuse of EU law is located on three major fault lines of EU law which accounts for the well established controversies in the field The first fault line which is common to all legal orders opposes legal congruence the tendency to yield equitable legal outcomes to legal certainty the tendency to yield predictable legal outcomes Partisans of legal congruence tend to advocate the prohibition of abuses of law whereas partisans of legal certainty tend to oppose it The second fault line is specific to EU law and divides two conceptions of the regulation of the internal market If economic integration is conceived as the promotion of cross border competition among private businesses the paradigm of regulatory neutrality choices of law must be proscribed as abusive for they distort business competition But if economic integration is intended to promote competition among Member States the paradigm of regulatory competition choices of law by EU citizens represent a desirable process of arbitration among national laws The third and final fault line corresponds to the tension between two orientations of the economic constitution of the European Union namely the fear of private power and the fear of public power Those who fear private power most tend to endorse the prohibition of abuses of law whereas those who fear public power most tend to reject it Seen in this way the concept of abuse of EU law offers a forum in which fundamental questions about the nature and function of EU law can be confronted and examined in a new light In May 2013 the thesis that this book was based on won the First Edition of the European Law Faculties Association Award for Outstanding Doctoral Thesis

Yearbook of European Environmental Law, 2008 A Legal and Political Interpretation of Articles 224 and 225 of the Treaty of Rome Constantin Stefanou, Helen Xanthaki, 2019-01-15 First published in 1997 Article 224 is one of the most powerful Articles of the Treaty of Rome allowing a member state to take unilateral measures and to suspend some or all its Treaty based obligations in times of what can loosely be described as serious internal turmoil or external threat It is for this reason that the very next Article of the Treaty Article 225 allows the Commission or a member state to challenge invocation of Art 224 before the European Court of Justice ECJ on grounds of improper use In practice the use of Art 224 by a member state presents multiple problems The obvious connection with defence and security issues has inhibited the ECJ which still has not given an authentic interpretation of this Article As the recent former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia FYROM cases Greek referral for the embargo on FYROM indicate unless the use of Art 224 is blatantly flippant the ECJ is not in a position to challenge a member state's unilateral measures

Davies, Giorgio Monti, 2020 European Union Law for the Twenty-first Century: Constitutional and public law external relations Takis Tridimas, Neelke Paolisa, 2004 National Parliaments in An Integrated Europe: An Anglo-German Perspective Adam Cygan, 2001-09-26 The acquisition of increased powers by the European Parliament has raised the spectre of a competition legislature for national parliaments and even the threat of a democratic deficit at the national level At this critical moment it is vital to recognise and reinforce the ways in which the institutions of the European Union are politically accountable to member States In this profound and revealing analysis of the participation by domestic legislatures in policymaking and legislative processes at the European level Adam Jan Cygan focuses on the evolving means by which the legislatures of Germany and the United Kingdom are responding to the increased competence of the European Union This technique allows him to highlight such factors as the following the procedures of European scrutiny committees in the United Kingdom Houses of Parliament and the German Bundestag the accountability of national ministers for decisions taken in the European Council of Ministers the role of sub national governments as revealed in both the formal federal system of Germany and the devolved administrations of the United Kingdom in European affairs and the continuing impact of Treaty provisions and informal cooperation between member States National Parliaments in an Integrated Europe clearly demonstrates that contrary to some prevailing beliefs national parliaments are not necessarily destined to become mere administrative institutions In fact the national initiatives and procedures analysed here reveal a firm commitment to compel the attention of the European Commission and the European Parliament toward national and even sub national accountability Current Publications in Legal and Related Fields ,2008 European Union Law Damian Chalmers,Gareth Davies,Giorgio Monti,2014-06-19 This market leading text combines clear explanation expert analysis and a wide range of materials to make it required reading Sourcebook on Public Law Helen Fenwick,Gavin Phillipson,1997 The study of constitutional law requires a great deal of reading from a variety of sources This book draws together a wide range of material to allow the reader to explore the subject in depth It sets out cases and materials concerning constitutional doc Index to Legal Periodicals & Books ,2006 International Organizations and Their Exercise of Sovereign Powers Dan Sarooshi,2005 This book examines the exercise of sovereign powers by international organizations and the relationships between organizations and their member states Law Books in Print: Subject index J-Z ,1997 Article 234 - the Legal Rule that Built Europe Aleksandra Čavoški,2005
