Everyday Arguments And The Theory Of Argumentation:

Everyday Arguments and the Theory of Argumentation David Miller, 2013-01-23 The theory of arguments is developed as it was actually practiced by the early Greek probabilists It is then illustrated by a number of examples of actual arguments How does one handle facts simple or complex introduced by one's opponent in an argument How can one use antitheses and reversals in an argument How does one handle analogies or slippery slope arguments or dilemmas This book is addressed to persons who are interested in learning appropriate methods for handling ordinary catch as catch can arguments that arise so often in the usual processes of exchanging opinions about the world and all that goes on within it Plausible Argument in Everyday Conversation Douglas Walton, 1992-11-03 This book provides a practical and accessible way of evaluating good and bad arguments used in everyday conversations by applying normative models of dialectical interactive argumentation where two parties reason together in an orderly and cooperative way Using case studies the author analyzes correct and incorrect uses of argumentation on controversial issues that engage the reader's interest while illustrating points in a practical way Walton gives clear explanations of the most common errors and tricky deceptions traditionally called fallacies that can trip up an unwary arguer Argumentation and Advocacy, 2003 The Practice of Argumentation David Zarefsky, 2019-09-19 This book uses different perspectives on argumentation to show how we create arguments test them attack and defend them and deploy them effectively to justify beliefs and influence others David Zarefsky uses a range of contemporary examples to show how arguments work and how they can be put together beginning with simple individual arguments and proceeding to the construction and analysis of complex cases incorporating different structures Special attention is given to evaluating evidence and reasoning the building blocks of argumentation Zarefsky provides clear guidelines and tests for different kinds of arguments as well as exercises that show student readers how to apply theories to arguments in everyday and public life His comprehensive and integrated approach toward argumentation theory and practice will help readers to become more adept at critically examining everyday arguments as well as constructing arguments that will convince others Argument in a Time of Change James F. Klumpp, 1998 Everyday English Caroline L. Laird, 1926 The Place of Emotion in Argument Douglas N. Walton, 1992 Appeals to emotion pity fear popular sentiment and ad hominem attacks are commonly used in argumentation Instead of dismissing these appeals as fallacious wherever they occur as many do Walton urges that each use be judged on its merits He distinguished three main categories of evaluation First is it reasonable even if not conclusive as an argument Second is it weak and therefore open to critical questioning for argument And third is it fallacious The third category is a strong charge that incurs a critical burden to back it up by citing evidence from the given text and context of dialogue Walton uses fifty six case studies to demonstrate that the problem of emotional fallacies is much subtler than has been previously believed Ranging over commercial advertisements political debates union management negotiations and ethical disputes the case studies reveal that these four types of appeals while based on presumptive reasoning that are tentative and subject to default are not always or necessarily fallacious types of argumentation Argument Structure Douglas N. Walton, 1996 Provides a systematic survey clarification and assessment of the different tests currently used to carry out tasks involved in argument identification and presents new methods for determining missing premises determining whether an argument is linked or convergent and deciding whether a given test of discourse contains an argument or not For Informal Logic , 2004 Everyday Arguments Katherine J. Mayberry, 2004-07 Everyday Arguments combines a practical student oriented argument rhetoric with an anthology of illustrative readings drawn from arguments of everyday life The rhetoric portion of the text contains a four part taxonomy and guides students through the process of generating drafting composing and revising written arguments The anthology of readings is closely tied to the principles and practices introduced in the rhetoric section Throughout the text the author emphasizes that much can be learned about written argument and its practice from the texts we encounter on a daily basis Writing intensive exercises in each chapter encourage students to practice new skills as they learn them while refreshing their knowledge of previously mastered skills These exercises emphasize the value of collaboration revision and responsible research Helpful student samples encourage
