Impact Evaluation and Assessment of UN Peace Operations: What is the State-of-the-art? Michele Lipner, Ann Livingstone, 2015

Assessing Success In United Nations Peace Operations Alexander Bezeau, 2018 The international community has long relied on United Nations UN peace operations as the means of creating and maintaining international peace and security however the realities of what a successful mission looks like remains obscured as the experiences and definitions of success may differ between the various players involved While a shared definition of success and operational structure remains elusive it is clear that the assessment of UN missions must be conducted in a holistic manner from mandate crafting to mission transition and exit Among these realities is that the assessment of UN peace operation success is all too often hindered by political partiality with the determination of mission success frequently held hostage by faulty political processes It is essential that evaluative frameworks encompass the various stages of a peace operation in order to illustrate the political challenges that often obstruct the planning and assessment of a UN mission Highlighting the political obstacles associated with holistic mission planning and assessment against the backdrop of ongoing ad hoc UN peace operation deployments to Haiti breaks down existing normative positions and exposes the realities and voids in current methodology

Measuring what Matters in Peace Operations & Crisis Management Sarah Jane Meharg, 2009 The international community has become increasingly interested in measuring the effectiveness of its activities in war affected environments This interest is partially motivated by a need to calculate the costs of these very expensive ventures and partially by the recognition that activities have not always been successful While stakeholders are interested in measuring the effectiveness of their work in places like Afghanistan they may be reticent to discover that their military policing and humanitarian activities are ineffectual or worse have had negative effects on recipient populations recovering from armed conflicts Sarah Jane Meharg analyses why various mechanisms results based management measures of effectiveness log frames essential task matrices are used in attempts to reduce complex intervention activities to simple success stories She argues that the stakeholders involved could benefit from a deeper understanding of the theories concepts philosophies and assumptions of other stakeholders in the peace operations and crisis management environment She suggests ways to achieve this understanding through the strategic exercise of measuring effectiveness in relation to organizational requirements and recipient population s priorities in post conflict societies Measuring What Matters in Peace Operations and Crisis Management provides policy advice on stakeholder approaches and advances the thinking on measuring progress in general Primary field research for this book was conducted by Canada s Pearson Peacekeeping Centre

Keeping the Peace A. K. Bardalai, 2022 The book is about assessing the effectiveness of a traditional UN Peace Operation The book first goes on to develop a conceptual framework for the evaluation of UN peace operations and apply that to assess the performance of a traditional UN Peace Operation with UNIFIL as a case study The author relies on empirical data supported by perceptions and practical experiences of peacekeepers and subject matter experts at both the operational and tactical levels using a mixed method of qualitative and quantitative analysis The author proves that UNIFIL can be assessed to be a satisfactorily successful UN Peace Operation He ends the book with a few major takeaways and offers actionable recommendations to the practitioners of peacekeeping and for future reform of UN peace operations This book is the first of its kind by a former Indian peacekeeper who holds a PhD from Tilburg University the Netherland

Principles and Guidelines for Un Peacekeeping Operations Evaluation and Training Division, 2010-10-01 United Nations Peacekeeping Oldrich Bureš, 2008 Making War and Building Peace Michael W. Doyle, Nicholas Sambanis, 2006-06-04 The author analyses the effectiveness of United Nations peacekeeping missions in building peace after civil war The text utilizes statistical analysis of civil wars since 1945 to compare the outcomes of peace processes including UN peacekeeping missions Joint Evaluation of the Role and Contribution of the United Nations System in the Republic of South Africa, 2009 This report is the outcome of a new approach to evaluation in the UN based on partnership between a national government and the UN Evaluation group The purpose of this evaluation was to provide evidence and analysis that will enable decision makers in South Africa and the UN system to enhance the role and contribution of the UN to support South African policies and strategies for a better South Africa The evaluation also had a forward looking focus When Peacekeeping Missions Collide Paul F. Diehl, Daniel Druckman, Grace B. Mueller, 2023-10-13 The contemporary world is beset with a wide variety of conflicts all of which have features without historical precedent While most accounts of peacekeeping focus on attempts to limit violent conflict this traditional view hardly captures the variety of challenges that today s peacekeepers face Peacekeepers are now thrust into the unconventional roles of monitoring elections facilitating transitions to the rule of law distributing humanitarian aid and resolving conflicts in civil societies that are undergoing transformation This is the context for understanding the activities of modern day peacekeepers In When Peacekeeping Missions Collide Paul F Diehl Daniel Druckman and Grace B Mueller provide an original and comprehensive assessment on how different peacekeeping missions intersect with one another in contemporary conflicts They begin by documenting the patterns of peacekeeping missions in 70 UN operations noting the dramatic increase in number and diversity of operations since the end of the Cold War as well as the shift to conflicts with a substantial internal conflict component They then turn to the overarching question of the book how do individual peacekeeping missions impact the outcomes of other missions within the same operations To answer this the authors have developed a novel dataset of UN peace operations from 1946 2016 to assess mission compatibility Moreover the authors utilize five detailed case studies of UN peacekeeping operations featuring mission interdependence and then measure the results against their theoretical expectations Ultimately the model they have developed for analyzing the effectiveness of the far more complex peace operations of today relative to the simpler operations of the past is essential reading for scholars of peacekeeping and conflict management
