Ecosystem Services Plantation Forests Earthscan:

Ecosystem Goods and Services from Plantation Forests Jurgen Bauhus, Peter van der Meer, Markku Kanninen, 2010-09-23 Plantation forests often have a negative image. They are typically assumed to be poor substitutes for natural forests particularly in terms of biodiversity conservation, carbon storage, provision of clean drinking water and other non timber goods and services. Often they are monocultures that do not appear to invite people for recreation and other direct uses. Yet as this book clearly shows they can play a vital role in the provision of ecosystem services when compared to agriculture and other forms of land use or when natural forests have been degraded. This is the first book to examine explicitly the non timber goods and services provided by plantation forests including soil water and biodiversity conservation as well as carbon sequestration and the provision of local livelihoods. The authors show that if we require a higher provision of ecosystem goods and services from both temperate and tropical plantations new approaches to their management are required. These include policies, methods for valuing the services, the practices of small landholders, landscape approaches to optimise delivery of goods and services and technical issues about how to achieve suitable solutions at the scale of forest stands. While providing original theoretical insights the book also gives guidance for plantation managers, policy makers, conservation practitioners and community advocates who seek to promote or strengthen the multiple use of forest plantations for improved benefits for society. Land Degradation Neutrality: Achieving SDG 15 by Forest Management Pankaj Panwar, Gopal Shukla, Jahangeer A. Bhat, Sumit Chakravarty, 2022-10-18 This edited book covers all aspects of forest deforestation and degradation in detail and their link to land degradation. Poor natural resource management is often a contributory factor in the depletion of resources, particularly like degradation of land which hinders the goals to achieve land degradation neutrality (LDN). Sustainable Development Goal (SDG) target 15.3 states: By 2030, combat desertification, restore degraded land and soil, including land affected by desertification, drought and floods, and strive to achieve a land degradation neutral world. To achieve the set goals, a comprehensive multidirectional approach is required involving policymakers, field functionaries, researchers and above all educators. The book compiles the field experiences and wisdom of some of the best researchers and authors working in the field of land degradations for quite a long time. The objective of the book is to disseminate the status of land degradation, the importance of achieving land degradation neutrality, and share success stories of reclaiming land degradation and suggests means and ways of achieving land degradation neutrality. This book acts as a repository of knowledge on Land degradation neutrality for students, researchers and practitioners and policy planners.

Mixed-Species Forests Hans Pretzsch, David I. Forrester, Jürgen Bauhus, 2017-06-10 This textbook offers a detailed overview of the current state of knowledge concerning the ecology and management of compositionally and structurally diverse forests. It provides answers to central questions such as: What are the scientific concepts used to assess the growth dynamics and functioning of mixed species forests? how generalizable are they and what kind of experiments are necessary to develop them further How do mixed species stands compare with monocultures in relation to productivity wood quality and ecological stability in the face of stress and disturbances How are the effects of species mixtures on ecosystem functioning influenced by the particular species composition site conditions and stand structure How does any over or underyielding at the forest stand level emerge from the tree and organ level and what are the main mechanisms behind mixing effects How can our current scientific understanding of mixed species forests be integrated into silvicultural concepts as well as practical forest management and planning Do the ecological characteristics of mixed species stands also translate into economic differences between mixtures and monocultures In addition the book addresses experimental designs and analytical approaches to study mixed species forests and provides extensive empirical information general concepts models and management approaches for mixed species forests As such it offers a valuable resource for students scientists and educators as well as professional forest planners managers and consultants A joint stocktaking of CGIAR work on forest and landscape restoration Gitz, V.,Place, F.,Koziell, E.,Pingault, N.,van Noordwijk, M.,Meybeck, A.,Minang, P.,2020-07-23 Despite the high level of political engagement and the wide range of organizations involved in restoration projects from local to global levels beyond some success stories restoration is not happening at scale To address this issue three CGIAR Research Programs CRPs Forests Trees and Agroforestry FTA Policies Institutions and Markets PIM and Water Land and Ecosystems WLE decided to bring together their expertise in a joint stocktaking of CGIAR work on restoration This publication illustrates with concrete examples the powerful contribution of forest and landscape restoration to the achievement of most if not all the 17 sustainable development goals It can be used to support the design of future restoration activities programs and projects We hope that this document will help upscale restoration efforts and deliver enhanced impact from our CGIAR research The Ecosystems Revolution Mark Everard,2016-07-09 This book explores humanity's pressures from climate change and air pollution that forests currently face This book aims to increase understanding of the state and potential of forest ecosystems to mitigate and adapt to climate change in a polluted environment It reconciles process oriented research long term monitoring and applied modeling through comprehensive forest ecosystem research Furthermore it introduces forest super sites for research for integrating soil plant and atmospheric sciences and monitoring

It also provides mechanistic and policy oriented modeling with scientifically sound risk indications regarding atmospheric changes and ecosystem services Identifies current knowledge gaps and emerging research needs Highlights novel methodologies and integrated research concepts Assesses ecological meaning of investigations and prioritizing research need Achieving sustainable management of tropical forests Professor Jürgen Blaser, Mr Patrick D. Large-scale Forest Restoration David Lamb, 2014-09-19 Landscapes are being degraded and simplified across the globe This book explores how forest restoration might be carried out to increase landscape heterogeneity improve ecological functioning and restore ecosystem services in such landscapes It focuses on large landscape scale reforestation because that is the scale at which restoration is needed if many of the problems that have now developed are to be addressed It also shows how large scale forest restoration might improve human livelihoods as well as improve conservation outcomes A number of governments have undertaken national reforestation programs in recent years some have been more successful than others The author reviews these to explore what type of reforestation should be used where this should be carried out and how much should be done For example are the traditional industrial forms of reforestation necessarily the best to use in all situations How can forest restoration be reconciled with the need for food security And are there spatial thresholds that must be exceeded to generate economic and environmental benefits The book also examines the policy and institutional settings needed to encourage large scale reforestation This includes a discussion of the place for incentives to encourage landholders to undertake particular types of reforestation and to reforest particular locations It also considers forms of governance that are likely to lead to an equitable sharing of the costs and benefits of forest restoration Community Forestry in Nepal Richard Thwaites, Robert Fisher, Mohan Poudel, 2017-12-11 Community forestry focuses on the link between forest resources and livelihoods and contributes to forest conservation and reforestation It is widespread in Nepal with a very high proportion of the rural population involved and is widely recognized as one of the most successful examples of community forestry in Asia Through a combination of literature reviews and original research this volume explores key experiences and outcomes of community forestry in Nepal over the last four decades as a model for improving forest management and supporting local livelihoods The book takes a critical approach recognizing successes especially in forest conservation and restoration along with mixed outcomes in terms of poverty reduction and benefits to forest users It recognizes the way that community forestry has continued to evolve to meet new challenges including the global challenges of climate change environmental degradation and conservation as well as national demographic and social changes due to large scale labour migration and the growing remittance economy In addition to examining the changes and responses the book explores ways that community forestry in
