Producer Cooperatives as a New Mode of Production Bruno Jossa, 2014-02-05 The notion that there is no alternative to capitalism emerged after the fall of the Berlin Wall and made rapid headway due to increasing economic globalisation More recently this belief that there is no viable alternative has held firm despite the financial crisis high unemployment levels and an ever increasing gap between rich and poor However since the appearance of Benjamin Ward's seminal 1958 article economic theorists have been developing a workable alternative a system of self managed firms The core argument outlined in this book is that a well organised system of producer cooperatives would give rise to a new mode of production and ultimately a genuinely socialist society This argument is developed through three key steps First following on from Jaroslav Vanek s definition it is argued that a Labour Managed Firm a firm which strictly segregates capital incomes from labour incomes would implement a new production mode because it would reverse the pre existing relation between capital and labour Second given that a system of these Labour Managed Firm cooperatives would reverse the capital labour relationship it is suggested that this would constitute a form of market socialism Third it is argued that compared to capitalism a system of producer cooperatives offers a wealth of advantages including the potential for efficiency gains the eradication of unemployment and the end of exploitation Ultimately this book concludes that self management could take the place of central planning in Marxist visions for the future
