It also presents a more reliable and interpersonally comparable method for measuring happiness and discusses twelve factors from A to L that are crucial for individual happiness: attitude, balance, confidence, dignity, engagement, family, friends, gratitude, health, ideals, joyfulness, kindness, and love. Further, it examines important public policy considerations taking into account recent advances in economics, the environmental sciences, and happiness studies. Novel issues discussed include an environmentally responsible happy nation index to supplement GDP, the East Asian happiness gap, a case for stimulating pleasure centres of the brain, and an argument for higher public spending.
