Evolution and Posttraumatic Stress Chris Cantor, 2005-09-19 Posttraumatic Stress Disorder remains one of the most contentious and poorly understood psychiatric disorders Evolution and Posttraumatic Stress provides a valuable new perspective on its nature and causes This book is the first to examine PTSD from an evolutionary perspective Beginning with a review of conventional theories Chris Cantor provides a clear and succinct overview of the history clinical features and epidemiology of PTSD before going on to introduce and integrate evolutionary theory Subjects discussed include The evolution of human defensive behaviours A clinical perspective of PTSD Defence in overdrive evolution PTSD and parsimony This original presentation of PTSD as a defensive strategy describes how the use of evolutionary theory provides a more coherent and successful model for diagnosis greatly improving understanding of usually mystifying symptoms It will be of great interest to psychiatrists psychotherapists psychologists and anthropologists Textbook of Evolutionary Psychiatry and Psychosomatic Medicine Martin Brüne, 2015-10-29 This book is unique in taking an evolutionary perspective to understanding psychiatric and psychosomatic conditions It explores how the human brain mind has been shaped by natural and sexual selection and why adaptations to environmental conditions in our evolutionary past may not always work in our best interests Evolutionary Psychopathology Marco Del Giudice, 2018-07-06 Mental disorders arise from neural and psychological mechanisms that have been built and shaped by natural selection across our evolutionary history Looking at psychopathology through the lens of evolution is the only way to understand the deeper nature of mental disorders and turn a mass of behavioral genetic and neurobiological findings into a coherent theoretically grounded discipline The rise of evolutionary psychopathology is part of an exciting scientific movement in psychology and medicine a movement that is fundamentally transforming the way we think about health and disease Evolutionary Psychopathology takes steps toward a unified approach to psychopathology using the concepts of life history theory a biological account of how individual differences in development physiology and behavior arise from tradeoffs in survival and reproduction to build an integrative framework for mental disorders This book reviews existing evolutionary models of specific conditions and connects them in a broader perspective with the goal of explaining the large scale patterns of risk and comorbidity that characterize psychopathology Using the life history framework allows for a seamless integration of mental disorders with normative individual differences in personality and cognition and offers new conceptual tools for the analysis of developmental genetic and neurobiological data The concepts presented in Evolutionary Psychopathology are used to derive a new taxonomy of mental disorders the Fast Slow Defense FSD model The FSD model is the first classification system explicitly based on evolutionary concepts a biologically grounded alternative to transdiagnostic models The book reviews a wide range of common mental disorders discusses their classification in the FSD model and identifies functional subtypes within existing diagnostic categories Ancestral Landscapes in Human Evolution: Culture, Childrearing and Social Wellbeing

Darcia Narvaez, Kristin Valentino, Agustin Fuentes, James J. McKenna, Peter Gray, 2014-02-21 The social contexts in which children develop have transformed over recent decades but also over millennia Modern parenting practices have diverged greatly from ancestral practices which included natural childbirth extensive and on demand breastfeeding constant touch responsiveness to the needs of the child free play in nature with multiple aged playmates and multiple adult caregivers Only recently have scientists begun to document the outcomes for the presence or absence of such parenting practices but early results indicate that psychological wellbeing is impacted by these factors Ancestral Landscapes in Human Evolution addresses how a shift in the way we parent can influence child outcomes It examines evolved contexts for mammalian development optimal and suboptimal contexts for human evolved needs and the effects on childrens development and human wellbeing Bringing together an interdisciplinary set of renowned contributors this volume examines how different parenting styles and cultural personality influence one another Chapters discuss the nature of childrearing social relationships the range of personalities people exhibit the social and moral skills expected of adults and what wellbeing looks like As a solid knowledge base regarding normal development is considered integral to understanding psychopathology this volume also focuses on the effects of early childhood maltreatment By increasing our understanding of basic mammalian emotional and motivational needs in contexts representative of our ancestral conditions we may be in a better position to facilitate changes in social structures and systems that better support optimal human development This book will be a unique resource for researchers and students in psychology anthropology and psychiatry as well as professionals in public health social work clinical psychology and early care and education
