of an enzyme data information system as part of protein design activities at GBF. The present book Enzyme Handbook represents the printed version of this data bank. In future a computer searchable version will be also available. The enzymes in this Handbook are arranged according to the Enzyme Commission list of enzymes. Some 3000 different enzymes will be covered. Frequently enzymes with very different properties are included under the same EC number. Although we intend to give a representative overview on the characteristics and variability of each enzyme, the Handbook is not a compendium. The reader will have to go to the primary literature for more detailed information. Naturally it is not possible to cover all the numerous literature references for each enzyme, for special enzymes up to 40000 if the data representation is to be concise as is intended.

Student Study Guide and Solutions Manual to accompany General Organic and Biological Chemistry, 1e Kenneth W. Raymond, 2005-10-07. Finally readers have a shorter, less intimidating introduction to general organic and biological chemistry. Not only is Raymond's text concise, it also takes an integrated approach to presenting important topics in a way that makes the material easier to understand. In this approach, similarities can be exploited and concepts reinforced. The result is that readers see the strong connections that exist between these three branches of chemistry.

Study Guide and Solutions Manual Bruce A. Chase, Peter J. Russell, 2005-06.
