Ecological Data Design Management And Processing Ecological Methods And Concepts:

Ecological Data William K. Michener, James W. Brunt, 2009-04-01 Ecologists are increasingly tackling difficult issues like global change loss of biodiversity and sustainability of ecosystem services These and related topics are enormously challenging requiring unprecedented multidisciplinary collaboration and rapid synthesis of large amounts of diverse data into information and ultimately knowledge New sensors computers data collection and storage devices and analytical and statistical methods provide a powerful tool kit to support analyses graphics and visualizations that were unthinkable even a few years ago New and increased emphasis on accessibility management processing and sharing of high quality well maintained and understandable data represents a significant change in how scientists view and treat data These issues are complex and despite their importance are typically not addressed in database ecological and statistical textbooks This book addresses these issues providing a much needed resource for those involved in designing and implementing ecological research as well as students who are entering the environmental sciences Chapters focus on the design of ecological studies data management principles scientific databases data quality assurance data documentation archiving ecological data and information and processing data into information and knowledge The book stops short of a detailed treatment of data analysis but does provide pointers to the relevant literature in graphics statistics and knowledge discovery The central thesis of the book is that high quality data management systems are critical for addressing future environmental challenges This requires a new approach to how we conduct ecological research that views data as a resource and promotes stewardship recycling and sharing of data Ecological Data will be particularly useful to those ecologists and information specialists that actively design manage and analyze environmental databases However it will also benefit a wider audience of scientists and students in the ecological and environmental sciences

General Technical Report PNW-GTR ,1987 Monitoring Plant and Animal Populations Caryl L. Elzinga, Daniel W. Salzer, John W. Willoughby, James P. Gibbs, 2001-02-08 Monitoring Plant and Animal Populations offers an overview of population monitoring issues that is accessible to the typical field biologist and land managers with a modest statistical background The text includes concrete guidelines for ecologists to follow to design a statistically defensible monitoring program User friendly practical guide written in a highly readable format The authors provide an interdisciplinary scope to address the current widespread interest in monitoring in many environmental fields including pure and applied ecology conservation biology and wildlife management Emphasizes the role of monitoring in adaptive management Defines important terminology and contrasts monitoring with other data collection activities Covers the applicable principles of sampling and shows how to design a monitoring project Provides a step by step overview of the monitoring process illustrated by flow charts and references The authors also offer guidelines for analyzing and interpreting monitoring data Illustrates the foundation of management objectives and describes their components types and development Describes common field techniques for measuring important attributes of animal and plant populations

Reviews different methods for recording monitoring data in the field managing the data and communicating data to policy makers

A Changing World Felix Kienast, Otto Wildi, Sucharita Ghosh, 2007-03-16 Landscape Research has been established as an interdisciplinary field dealing with complex environmental processes at multiple spatial and temporal scales During the course of its history various societal technological and philosophical stimuli have shaped Landscape Research e g the declaration of Landscape Ecology in the 1930s and contemporary global technological and societal developments Modern landscape research presently uses mathematics statistics and advanced simulation techniques to combine empirical observations with known theories from ecology physics geography social science and so on Knowledge is thus updated and quantified via models that are used for estimation hypothesis testing prediction and assessment of scenarios Advances in the computational sciences e g fast computers and vast array of software space science e g remote sensing and biological sciences e g genetics as well as new perspectives in the social sciences play important roles Research findings are implemented in conservation management urban planning and global change mitigation strategies This book identifies emerging fields and new challenges that are discussed within the framework of the driving forces of Landscape Development Rather than offering a comprehensive overview of all fields of Landscape Research the book addresses hot topics emphasizing major contemporary trends in these fields

Wildlife Management and Landscapes William F. Porter, Chad J. Parent, Rosemary A. Stewart, David M. Williams, 2021-05-11 This edited collection considers how landscapes designed by humans contain multiple ecosystems for animals and plants Using quantitative methods the contributors explain how to model what components of a landscape are critical to species of interest

Conserving Forest Biodiversity David B. Lindenmayer, Jerry F. Franklin, 2013-04-10 While most efforts at biodiversity conservation have focused primarily on protected areas and reserves the unprotected lands surrounding those area the matrix are equally important to preserving global biodiversity and maintaining forest health In Conserving Forest Biodiversity leading forest scientists David B. Lindenmayer and Jerry F. Franklin argue that the conservation of forest biodiversity requires a comprehensive and multiscaled approach that includes both reserve and nonreserve areas They lay the foundations for such a strategy bringing together the latest scientific information on landscape ecology forestry conservation biology and related disciplines as they examine the importance of the matrix in key areas of ecology such as metapopulation dynamics habitat fragmentation and landscape connectivity general principles for matrix management using natural disturbance regimes to guide human disturbance landscape level and stand level elements of matrix management the role of adaptive management and monitoring social dimensions and tensions in implementing matrix based forest management In addition they present five case studies that illustrate aspects and elements of applied matrix management in forests The case studies cover a wide variety of conservation planning and management issues from North America South America and Australia ranging from relatively intact forest ecosystems to an intensively managed plantation Conserving Forest Biodiversity presents strategies for enhancing matrix management that can play a vital role in the development of more effective approaches to maintaining forest biodiversity. It examines the key issues and gives practical guidelines for sustained forest management highlighting the critical role of the matrix for scientists, managers, decisionmakers and other stakeholders involved in efforts to sustain biodiversity and ecosystem processes in forest landscapes.
