

Ecological Study Levels

Let's consider 5. Ecology is the study of the relationships among organisms and their environment

Ecologists try to find the patterns and use these studies to help understand environmental problems

Some define Ecological study encompasses all levels of organization

Consider the table below is the levels within each of the four organizational levels of ecological studies that are following:

organism, population, community, and ecosystem

Level	Organization	Examples
1. Organism	Individual living things	A butterfly
2. Population	A group of the same species that live in one area	Monarchs flying in a forest
3. Community	A group of different species that live in one area	Monarchs, birds, frogs, etc. plants that live together in a forest
4. Ecosystem	All of the organisms that live in an area with its physical, chemical, and biotic factors including the other	A butterfly flying in a forest
5. Biome	A major region or global community of organisms usually characterized by climate conditions and plant communities that live there	Forest, desert, tundra, etc. A major region of the world

Study with Ecology at various levels through observation, experimentation, and modeling

Let's look at the levels that work for plants that live in a forest

1. Individual is the one organism living in one area

2. Population is a group of organisms of the same species that live in one area

3. Community is a group of different species that live in one area

4. Ecosystem is a group of organisms that live in one area with its physical, chemical, and biotic factors

5. Biome is a major region or global community of organisms usually characterized by climate conditions and plant communities that live there
