Smith, 2016-07-11 There has always been an intricate relationship between religion and politics This encyclopedia provides a comprehensive overview of the interrelation of religion and politics from colonial days to the present Can a judge display the Ten Commandments outside of the courthouse Can a town set up a nativity scene on the village green during Christmas Should U S currency bear the In God We Trust motto Should public school students be allowed to form bible study groups Controversies about the separation of church and state the proper use of religious imagery in public space and the role of religious beliefs in public education are constantly debated This work offers insights into contemporary controversies regarding the uneasy intersections of religion and politics in America Organized alphabetically the entries place each topic in its proper historical context to help readers fully grasp how religious beliefs have always existed side by side and often clashed with political ideals in the United States from the time of the colonies The information is presented in an unbiased manner that favors no particular religious background or political inclination This work shows that politics and religion have always had an impact on one another and have done so in many ways that will likely surprise modern students God is Green Bob Shore-Goss, 2016-10-28 At this time of climate crisis here is a practical Christian ecospirituality It emerges from the pastoral and theological experience of Reverend Robert Shore Goss who worked with his congregation by making the earth a member of the church by greening worship and by helping the church building and operations attain a carbon neutral footprint Shore Goss explores an ecospirituality grounded in incarnational compassion Practicing incarnational compassion means following the lived praxis of Jesus and the commission of the risen Christ as Gardener Jesus becomes the green face of God Restrictive Christian spiritualities that exclude the earth as an original blessing of God must expand This expansion leads to the realization that the incarnation of Christ has deep roots in the earth and the fleshly or biological tissue of life This book aims to foster ecological conversation in churches and outlines the following practices for congregations meditating on nature inviting sermons on green topics covenanting with the earth and retrieving the natural elements of the sacraments These practices help us recover ourselves as fleshly members of the earth and the network of life If we fall in love with God's creation says Shore Goss we will fight against climate change Kingdom Ethics, 2nd ed. David P. initiatives develop and whether sustainability becomes embedded in these religious organizations Both the framework and the information on process presented in this book will be highly useful to scholars and to people of faith interested in implementing an earth care ethic through sustainability programs

GreenFaith Rev. Fletcher Harper, 2015-03-17 God is calling us to live differently The challenges we face are imminent GreenFaith provides vision inspiration and practical tools to help you build your faith while inhabiting a creation that is at risk With honesty and candor Fletcher Harper shows that it

Wilson Dickinson,2019-12-11 When was the last time that we heard some good news For those tuned in to the ecological crisis and the daily chronicle of injustice the declaration of good news might seem synonymous with denial and avoidance The gospel of Jesus Christ helps us to face the suffering of the world and live in love and hope The only catch is it requires that we change It is only by losing our consumeristic profit seeking and isolated lives that we may save them The Green Good News finds a fresh take on the Gospels painting a picture of Jesus as a humorous and subversive teacher an organizer of alternative communities and food economies as a healer of bodies and relationships and as a prophet who sought to overturn an empire and restore a more just and joyful way of life Christ teaches and incarnates a vision for sustainable life and provides practices that mark the path toward it By exploring this always inspiring sustainable gospel we can find ways to transform our lives communities and even creation Saving God's Green Earth Tri Robinson,Jason Chatraw,2006 For hundreds of years the church championed the beauty of God s creation demonstrating in many ways how it points to the Creator However over the last century the evangelical church has let the value of caring for creation slip away Author and pastor Tri Robinson makes a compelling case for the biblical mandate behind environmental stewardship and shows the church what it can do about this eroding value Through sharing both his own personal story and the story of his church in response to environmental concerns Robinson clearly shows how important this value is and how effective it is in showing others the Creator Not only does Robinson inspire the reader to care for the environment he reveals a clear pathway to making the value of environmental stewardship real in both the life of the reader and the Christian community in which he or she is involved Green Church Rebekah Simon-Peter,2011-12-01 Green Church Caretakers of God s Creation will help children experience what it means to be good stewards of God s Creation Each lesson includes introductory activities that children will select based on their interest a large group time where the children will come together to hear and interact with the Bible Story a small group time where the children will discuss ways to take action for God s creation For a webinar on how to use the Green Church family of products visit www.webinars.cokesbury.com Become a fan at www.Facebook.com To Care for Creation Stephen Ellingson,2016-08-26 In merely two decades a small number of resource poor religious organizations have created a new ethic and a new set of green religious traditions with an infrastructure in place to educate and mobilize individuals and organizations To Care for Creation explains how religious environmentalism has emerged despite various institutional and cultural barriers and why the new movement organizations follow a logic and set of practices that set them apart from the secular movement In addition to the new ethic and green religious traditions Ellingson shows how the movement launches programs to make religious building environmentally friendly fight toxic waste and mountain top removal protect watersheds and promote sustainable agriculture His book research involved him in six dozen interviews with key players in the 70 or so extant religious environmental movement organizations which are set against secular environmental organizations the difference is between a message of hope for the religious movement vs one of doom and gloom for the secular movement The religious movement is sorely understudied and it addresses a crucial issue of the dayclimate change The Earth Cries Out Gardner, Gary ,2021-06-16 The Earth Cries Out describes best practices in religious responses to the impending climate and sustainability emergency and presents the next steps for faith communities in the years ahead Green Revolution Ben Lowe,2009-02-23 Activist Ben Lowe calls the present generation to come together and care for the earth in a way that recent generations have not Telling real life stories of community organizing on college campuses across the nation Lowe shows us that little things can make a big difference when we all work together

Faith and the Environment Ira Kale Calvert,University of North Carolina at Charlotte. College of Architecture,2008 The purpose of this research is to find out if the design of religious institutions can initiate a movement into ecological design as a belief system One method for introducing the importance of sustainability in our communities would be through the exhibition of the ways in which the religious institutions are housed and how they operate in that environment In leading by example the house of worship would enhance its already powerful voice in the community and exhibit physical moral declarations towards the importance of ecological design The purpose of the project is to investigate the possibility that the design of religious institutions could initiate a movement into ecological design as a belief system The objectives of this project are 1 to develop a verbal discourse with a congregation concerning their views on the environment 2 to develop a building program based upon this discourse while being engaged with the historical theological and liturgical platforms of the congregation and 3 to design a structure tailored to the wants and needs of the congregation that tests the ideas of the premise Claiming Earth as Common Ground Andrea Cohen-Kiener,2012-05-10 Can religious people save the environment Can the environmental challenge save religion Our planet is in trouble and it will take an amazingly large and powerful force to shift into a more sustainable way of living Spiritual leader and environmental activist Andrea Cohen Kiener tells us that people of faith have the numbers the passion and the mandate to do itand that nothing else is strong enough to counterbalance business as usual In this urgent call to action Cohen Kiener gathers insights from ecology coalitions emerging theologies and spiritual and environmental activists to rally and inspire us to work across denominational lines in order to fulfill our sacred imperative to care for Gods creation Cohen Kiener and contributors clearly outline the shared values of our faith traditions that drive our commitment to care for the earth Acknowledging the challenges in working together to implement positive change they present steps both big and small for individuals and groups for reversing our direction from consumption to sustainability Contributors include Rev Woody Bartlett founder Georgia Interfaith Power and Light Rev Tom Carr National Council of Churches Working Group on the Environment Rev Donna Schaper senior minister Judson Memorial Church New York City Rev Margaret Bullitt Jonas Religious Witness for the Earth Eboo Patel executive director Interfaith Youth Core Dr Lowell Rusty Pritchard national director of outreach Evangelical Environmental Network

Caring for Creation Paul Douglas, Mitch Hescox, 2016-10-04 Faith Based Solutions to Caring for the Earth Climate change is a confusing and polarizing issue It may also prove to be the most daunting challenge of this century because children the elderly and the poor will be the first to feel its effects The issue is all over the news but what is seldom heard is a conservative evangelical perspective Connecting the dots between science and faith this book explores the climate debate and how Christians can take the lead in caring for God's creation The authors answer top questions such as What's really happening and Who can we trust and discuss stewarding the earth in light of evangelical values Acting on climate change is not about political agendas they say It's about our kids It's about being a disciple of Jesus Christ Capping off this empowering book are practical simple ideas for improving our environment and helping our families and those around us
