Computers as Metacognitive Tools for Enhancing Learning Roger Azevedo, 2018-12-17 First published in 2005 This Volume 40 No 4 of Autumn 2005 of the Educational Psychologist The articles appearing in this special issue of Educational Psychologist reflect a growing interest by researchers from various fields in examining the use of computers as metacognitive tools for enhancing learning This topic has become increasingly important as computer based learning environments become ubiquitous and students use them extensively both in and out of school to learn about conceptually rich domains

The Essay Paul Heilker, 1996 Calling for a radical reexamination of the traditional foundation of composition instruction the thesis support form this book argues that the essay with its informality conversational tone meditative mood and integration of form and content is better suited to developmental epistemological ideological and feminist rhetorical perspectives The book first traces the origins of the essay in the 16th century It then examines 20th century theories of the form to illustrate what constitutes the fundamental qualities of the essay epistemological skepticism anti scholasticism and the use of an anti Ciceronian chronologic organization we can only have one thought in our heads at a time one thought leads to another and time flows in only one direction This leads to writing that is well developed and well ordered consistent and methodical The book shapes a rehabilitative theory of the essay by applying the theories of Mikhail Bakhtin to advance a conception of the essay as a centrifugal novelistic dialogic and carnivalesque form The book then examines the practice of some contemporary essayists Aldous Huxley Joan Didion Charles Simic Alice Walker Scott Russell Sanders Gretel Ehrlich and Joseph Epstein Extensive detailed accounts of assignments and classroom activities on the essay form that have been used effectively with students are offered Several student essays are presented in their entirety and analyzed in the book An afterword and appendixes on sources and works cited conclude the book NKA

Content Literacy Elizabeth G. Sturtevant,Wayne M. Linek,2004 On a distant alien world a race against time and human stupidity Kim s group still stranded halfway across Antares must get back to the base camp through a journey filled with deadly encounters Meanwhile at the base camp a trip to the neighbouring planet source of the strange ray that vaporised Kim s daughter is being organised The prospect of meeting an intelligent species though drives the religious fanatics in charge to clamp down on any person or activity deemed rebellious As if a hostile world isn t enough the colonists have brought their own worst enemy with them

Better Writing in Sight Kathryn Fuhs,2008 Beyond the Formula M. Elizabeth Lonnecker,2018 Much writing instruction in high school is based on using formulas and templates such as the 5 paragraph essay Writing these types of essays does not necessarily give students the skills and strategies they need to be successful writers beyond high school Intersegmental Committee of the Academic Senate 2002 Consequently many students are graduating from high school unprepared for college and workplace writing tasks Casner Lotto Kline Williams 2007 In addition formulaic writing does not necessarily foster critical thinking skills Intersegmental Committee of the Academic Senate 2002 Struggling students specifically often receive this kind of writing instruction based on templates because of the perception that they need remediation before they can compose more sophisticated texts Brannon et al 2008 The Beyond the Formula BTF curriculum was designed to provide scaffolds that foster critical thinking as a foundation for composing texts instead of requiring students to adhere to a formula With the BTF curriculum students analyze information from various sources about current topics and then compose texts based on rhetorical strategies instead of using a prescribed formula BTF was implemented in a twelfth grade English class in a Southern California public high school The school is designated as a Title I school The racial demographics of the students are 13 5% African American 76 7% Latino Hispanic 7 4% Caucasian and 1 3% Asian The activities were designed to provide scaffolds to struggling students in order to give them access to curriculum that promoted critical thinking In addition the curriculum topics were based on current events in order to foster student engagement and interest The teacher researcher used rubrics student interviews and essay excerpts for the evaluation The data analysis indicates that strategic scaffolding can provide students with sufficient support to produce texts without using a formula or template Additionally students of all levels can participate in the prerequisite critical thinking activities required for these kinds of writing tasks However struggling students need more guided instruction and practice with writing strategies and conventions to produce proficient texts Overall the data demonstrates that students of all levels can participate in higher level thinking and writing activities with the support of effective scaffolds
