

The background of the cover is a photograph of three Chinese naval destroyers, likely Type 529, sailing in formation on the ocean. The ship in the center is the most prominent, with its radar masts and gun turrets clearly visible. Two other similar ships are positioned behind it to the left and right. The sky is overcast and the water is a deep blue-grey.

Fire On The Water China America And The Future Of The Pacific:

Fire on the Water, Second Edition Robert J Haddick, 2022-08-15 When Robert Haddick wrote Fire on the Water first published in 2014 most policy experts and the public underestimated the threat China's military modernization posed to the U S strategic position in the Indo Pacific region Today the rapid Chinese military buildup has many policy experts wondering whether the United States and its allies can maintain conventional military deterrence in the region and the topic is central to defense planning in the United States In this new edition Haddick argues that the United States and its allies can sustain conventional deterrence in the face of China's military buildup However doing so will require U S policymakers and planners to overcome institutional and cultural barriers to reforms necessary to implement a new strategy for the region Fire on the Water Second Edition also presents the sources of conflict in Asia and explains why America's best option is to maintain its active forward presence in the region Haddick relates the history of America's military presence in the Indo Pacific and shows why that presence is now vulnerable The author details China's military modernization program how it is shrewdly exploiting the military technical revolution and why it now poses a grave threat to U S and allied interests He considers the U S responses to China's military modernization over the past decade and discusses why these responses fall short of a convincing competitive strategy Detailing a new approach for sustaining conventional deterrence in the Indo Pacific region the author discusses the principles of strategy as they apply to the problems the United States faces in the region He explains the critical role of aerospace power in the region and argues that the United States should urgently refashion its aerospace concepts if it is to deter aggression focusing on Taiwan the most difficult case Haddick illustrates how the military technical revolution has drastically changed the potential of naval forces in the Indo Pacific region and why U S policymakers and planners need to adjust their expectations and planning for naval forces Finally he elucidates lessons U S policymakers can apply from past great power competitions examines long term trends affecting the current competition summarizes a new U S strategic approach to the region describes how U S policymakers can overcome institutional barriers that stand in the way of a better strategy and explains why U S policymakers and the public should have confidence about sustaining deterrence and peace in the region over the long term

Fire on the Water Robert Haddick, 2014-09-15 The main theme of Fire on the Water is that conventional measures of military balance employed by both the general public and many policy experts underestimate the threat that China's military modernization poses to the U S position in the Asia Pacific region Within a decade China's leaders will have the military power to hold at risk U S interest in East Asia The U S needs to fashion a new and competitive strategy one that better matches the strengths of the U S and its allies against China's vulnerabilities in order to maintain a balance of power in the region and convince China's leaders to pursue a cooperative course It is not obvious to many observers why a conflict in the region is plausible or why the U S should bear the responsibility for maintaining a forward military presence in the region China has rapidly emerged as a great power and by doing so has acquired many vital interests around the world Following the pattern set by other such episodes in history China is also acquiring the military means to protect its new interests a development that puts at risk the interests of China s neighbors and the United States The U S forward military presence in the region is an increasingly difficult burden to sustain But in the long run this approach will be less costly and less risky than encouraging China s neighbors to balance China by themselves an alternative that will very likely result in an unstable arms race and a conflict that will damage America s interests While it will be in America s interest to maintain its position in the Asia Pacific region China s military modernization is making it much more difficult for the U S to do so China s military strategy centered on its rapidly expanding land based and anti ship missile forces is exploiting weaknesses in long standing U S force structure and doctrine Due to a variety of institutional barriers the U S has been slow to adapt to China s military modernization Current efforts to respond are impractical in that they expend U S resources against China s strengths rather than its vulnerabilities The U S needs a new and competitive strategy that will strengthen its alliances in the region and convince China s leaders that cooperation rather than military expansion and an attempt at regional hegemony will be China s best course Fire on the Water proposes reforms to U S diplomacy military programs and strategy that will offer a better chance at preserving stability The goal of these reforms is to thwart China s well designed military modernization plan bolster the confidence and credibility of U S alliances in the region and thus persuade China s leaders that China s best course is cooperation rather than conflict the outcome that has usually occurred in history when a new great power has rapidly emerged
