Educators Consumer Guide To Private Tutoring Services Fastback:

Educators' Consumer Guide to Private Tutoring Services Edward E. Gordon, 1989 This pamphlet provides educators with a consumer's guide to private tutoring services in their communities. It includes a history of the tutoring tradition, methods used by tutoring services to show student progress, procedures for locating a tutor or tutoring service, criteria for selecting a tutoring service, a checklist for assessing tutoring services, suggestions for counseling parents who are considering enrolling their child in a tutoring service, and an annotated bibliography. PB Resources in Education, 1990

Exceptional Child Education Resources, 1990 Developing an Effective Teacher Mentor Program Melvin P. Heller, Nancy W. Sindelar, 1991 School districts considering a mentoring program need to consider four things: 1 the reasons for a teacher mentor program, 2 how to start such a program, 3 administrative support needed for a successful program, and 4 pitfalls to avoid. The reasons for having a mentor program are that it benefits the new teacher, the mentor, and the school. The new teacher's opportunities to exchange views with an experienced teacher is a distinct benefit to him/her. The mentor benefits also, however, because of the opportunity to share views, experiences, and strategies. The improved teaching that usually results is an asset to the school. Starting a program involves six stages: establishing a rationale, setting criteria for the selection of mentors, defining roles, inviting the mentors, training the mentors, and evaluating the program. To be successful, the program must have administrative support from the board of education, the superintendent, the central office staff, the teacher union, and the principal. As with any new program, anticipating problems can help to avoid them. Some pitfalls are overdependence on the part of the protégé, ego problems on the part of the mentor, and the evaluation dilemma arising from the mentor's dual role of confidant and evaluator. Mentorship programs promote professionalism by providing continuous staff development during the first year of teaching. AMH Strategies for Involving Parents in Their Children's Education Linda T. Jones, 1991 This publication presents an overview of programs and practices that schools can use for involving parents in the education of their children at home and in school. The first chapter describes programs that demonstrate the ways in which parents can be involved in the education of their children of 1 to 5 years of age. A list of 10 approaches for involving parents in their children's early education is included. The second chapter discusses the topics of: 1 improving communication between home and school, 2 helping parents work with their children at home, 3 involving parents in school activities, 4 developing collaborative planning among parents, students, and teachers, and 5 empowering parents to become decisionmakers in their children's schools. The third chapter provides brief descriptions of parent workshops and activities that schools might want to offer or sponsor. Some are for parents only; others are for parents and children. The fourth chapter describes types of school-parent collaboration that can improve children's behavior, attitudes, and study habits. The concluding chapter offers guidelines for planning a successful parent involvement program. Contains 37 references. RH Resources in Education, 1997 The Portfolio Approach to Assessment Emily Grady, 1992 The shortcomings of standardized testing as the predominant form of student assessment in the United States are reviewed and the use and potential benefits of portfolio assessment are explored Children s educational experiences and their future job prospects and standards of living are being decided by test scores Moreover these test scores may be unfair or biased against some students Instead of more tests we need a new attitude toward assessment one that encourages a variety of assessments Portfolio assessment through collections of student works can be an encompassing format for this new philosophy Before considering what a portfolio should contain it is important to establish the purpose of the assessment The experiences of Vermont illustrate the development of a portfolio assessment with consistent standards Examples of guidelines for mathematics and language arts portfolios make it clear that it is possible to establish consistent practices It is also necessary to reflect on the portfolio occasionally using self evaluations and direct questions or profiles Educators also find portfolios useful tools for preservice teachers Portfolio assessment can be the framework for a new curricular structure that integrates assessment into the learning loop SLD

Street Gangs and the Schools Kevin W. Riley,1991 Schools cannot approach the problem of street gangs with the same strategies as law enforcement agencies but rather must create a nurturing environment for all students where success in school and life becomes the only attractive option for gang members Street gangs represent the racial cultural and economic diversity of American society Gangs are similar to other organizations in that they have a name claim territory have a continuous membership and distinguish themselves from other groups However to qualify as a gang the organization must be involved in criminal activity Gang involvement can range from simple admiration or identification with someone who is in a gang to classification by a law enforcement agency as a documented full participant The following factors contribute to gang involvement 1 power 2 pride 3 prestige 4 peer pressure 5 adventure 6 self preservation 7 money and 8 limited life options Schools must avoid the unproductive approach of attempting to identify and discipline gang members based on stereotyped behaviors A positive educational approach to preventing gang involvement should include the following components 1 staff development 2 values education 3 school climate 4 cultural inclusion and 5 community involvement A list of 24 references is appended FMW
