Disposed To Learn Schooling Ethnicity And The Scholarly Habitus:

Disposed to Learn Megan Watkins,Greg Noble,2013-08-22 Explores the academic debates surrounding the relationship between ethnicity and education and proposes a rethinking of the goals and methods of multicultural education Asian Migration and Education Cultures in the Anglosphere Megan Watkins,Christina Ho,Rose Butler,2019-03-27 Asian migration and mobilities are transforming education cultures in the Anglosphere prompting mounting debates about tiger mothers and dragon children and competition and segregation in Anglosphere schools This book challenges the cultural essentialism which prevails in much academic and popular discussion of Asian success and in relation to Asian education mobilities As anxiety and aspiration within these spaces are increasingly ethnicised the children of Asian migrants are both admired and resented for their educational success This book explores popular perceptions of Asian migrant families through in depth empirically informed accounts on the broader economic social historical and geo political contexts within which education cultures are produced This includes contributions from academics on global markets and national policies around migration and education classed trajectories and articulations local formations of ethnic capital and transnational assemblages that produce education and mobility as means for social advancement At a time when our schooling systems and communities are undergoing rapid transformations as a result of increasing global mobility this book is a unique and important contribution to an issue of pressing significance This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies Cultural Pedagogies and Human Conduct Megan Watkins,Greg Noble,Catherine Driscoll,2015-03-24 Pedagogy is often glossed as the art and science of teaching but this focus typically ties it to the instructional practices of formalised schooling Like the emerging work on public pedagogies the notion of cultural pedagogies signals the importance of the pedagogic in realms other than institutionalised education but goes beyond the notion of public pedagogies in two ways it includes spaces which are not so public and it includes an emphasis on material and non human actors This collection foregrounds this broader understanding of pedagogy by framing enquiry through a series of questions and across a range of settings How for example are the processes of teaching and learning realised within and across the pedagogic processes specific to various social sites What ensembles of people things and practices are brought together in specific institutional and everyday settings to accomplish these processes This collection brings together researchers whose work across the interdisciplinary nexus of cultural studies sociology media studies education and museology offers significant insights into these cultural pedagogies the practices and relations through which cumulative changes in how we act feel and think occur Cultural Pedagogies and Human Conduct opens up debate across disciplines theoretical perspectives and empirical foci to explore both what is pedagogical about culture and what is cultural about pedagogy Training Missionaries Evelyn Hibbert,Richard Hibbert,2016-09-08 Missionaries must know God be able to relate well to other people understand and engage with another culture and be able to use the Bible in a way that informs all aspects of their lives and ministries Missionary training must address each of these areas if it is to help Christians to be effective in taking the gospel to the ends of the earth Effective training has been shown to prevent people from prematurely leaving the field It also reduces the danger of cross cultural workers uncritically exporting culturally bound forms of Christianity This book details four key areas that every missionary training program whatever its context must focus on developing It shows how these can be holistically addressed in a learning community where trainers and trainees engage in cross cultural ministry together Routledge Handbook of the Sociology of Higher Education James E. Côté, 2016-06-03 This is the first handbook to cover the sociological approaches to higher education It is timely because of global expansions of mass higher educational systems especially as these systems come under scrutiny by a variety of stakeholders Questions are being raised about the value of traditional pedagogies along with calls for efficiency accountability and cost reduction but above all job training Within this neoliberal context each chapter examines different sociological aspects of and debates about educational institutions as status conferring organizations with myriad positional characteristics experiences and outcomes Many current debates concern the legitimacy of the statuses conferred including the continuing debate regarding the role of universities in legitimating social class reproduction as well as more recent concerns about standards in mass systems This handbook puts these issues and debates in focus in ways that will be of interest to a variety of stakeholders within academia as well as in policy circles Childhood, Learning & Everyday Life in Three Asia-Pacific Cities I-Fang Lee, Sue Saltmarsh, Nicola Yelland, 2023-04-17 This book introduces findings from an international cross cultural and interdisciplinary study of children s everyday experiences of growing up and going to school in the context of the three global cities of Hong Kong Singapore and Melbourne It takes the premise that children s learning and orientations to educational success are shaped by everyday cultural practices at home and at school by policy contexts that both produce and respond to educational and cultural norms and by individual and familial desires and aspirations Drawing on research conducted with primary school aged children in Year 4 the book considers how day to day routines such as going to school engaging in extra curricular activities outside of school and spending time at home with family intersect with the broader milieus of education policy ideals in a changing and interconnected world Through a combination of visual methodologies surveys ethnographic observations in schools classrooms and cityscapes re enactments of everyday activities with children at home and sociological education policy analysis this book shows both the richness of children s everyday lives and learning in global cities as well as exploring questions that pose challenges to educational and social norms Social Theory Mark Murphy, 2021-08-22 This textbook delivers a new thematic introduction to social theory that explores theoretical issues in their contemporary social contexts Each chapter is devoted to a specific thematic area including the state governance the economy civil society culture language knowledge the self emotions the body and social justice Each chapter details the key issues for debate and the relevant theories while linking those debates and theories to everyday life Distributed throughout the chapters are focused sections on key concepts and their research applications alongside helpful additional detail including a glossary further suggested readings chapter summaries and questions for discussion The book also provides useful information on key theoretical movements such as feminism Marxism and post structuralism as well as biographies of key theorists As such it reflects the breadth of social theory and its interdisciplinary nature by drawing on thinkers not just from sociology but also from philosophy history literature geography cultural and gender studies The book's logical structure and clear pedagogical features make it an appealing and accessible introductory text for students new to social theory The chapters demonstrate the relevance of social theory to everyday life such that readers can understand and actively engage with key concepts

Language Education in the School Curriculum Ken Cruickshank, Stephen Black, Honglin Chen, Linda Tsung, Jan Wright, 2020-05-14 There is widespread concern in all English speaking countries at the rapid decline in study of languages The promise of languages for all in the UK and North America in the 1970s marked a shift from languages as lite subjects for the privileged few but this promise has not been fulfilled This book explores the reasons for and solutions to this decline More importantly it looks at how these trends have been reversed in successful school programs and the implications of this for language education policy makers The study draws on an analysis of data from 600 primary secondary and community languages schools over six years and from detailed case studies in a representative sample of 45 successful schools The book proposes a range of strategies to address the decline from engaging classroom learning assessment outcomes and embedding languages as central in school curriculum on the one level to a mix of incentives and mandation for language study especially at upper secondary school level The authors explore the impact of learning languages on the thinking educational experiences and outcomes of young people across a range of ethnic backgrounds and socioeconomic statuses They show the importance of having equal access to languages study in a world where young people will have increasingly more diverse working lives and argue that the gap in languages between policy and uptake is really a gap in the thinking of policy makers and government

Black and Brown William A. Sampson, 2004 Here author William A. Sampson examines the role of the family in the school preparation process among poor Blacks and Latinos It is based upon the data collected during intense long term observations of 21 disadvantaged minority students and families in their homes within the same community The data suggests that the differences in performances are to a large degree a function of differences in the specific ways in which their parents most often the mother prepares them for the educational experience When discipline responsibility delayed gratification internal control the value of education and high self esteem are emphasized consistently in the home students tend to achieve When the home environment is quiet structured and orderly the students do well in school Most importantly when parents help their children with homework the students excel This book Frames the issues of the educational improvement Lays out the methodology Presents the data arranged by the academic performance of the students Presents a detailed analysis of the data and their impact upon both the debate over educational improvement and the theoretical issue of the link between race ethnicity social class and education Offers comparisons between poor Black families and poor Latino families Will be of interest to scholars in educational improvement public school teachers administrators policy makers and those concerned with social class and its ramifications Racial and Ethnic Identity in School Practices Rosa Hernández Sheets, Etta R. Hollins, 1999 This book demonstrates and explicates the work of scholars and practitioners who are exploring the interconnectedness of racial and ethnic identity scholarship to human development in order to promote successful pedagogical practices and services Racial and ethnic identity issues are brought directly to schooling so that teaching learning experiences psychological services and counseling practices within the educational process can be made more effective for a greater number of students By acknowledging that the racial and ethnic psychological experiences of individuals are consequential the volume Provides scholars and students in psychology educational psychology counseling and teacher preparation programs with current research on racial and ethnic identity formation and human development Explains why traditional theories of human development which lack racial and ethnic dimensions and which have evolved exclusively from a Eurocentric perspective are problematic Documents current best practices from psychology educational leadership counseling and teaching and classroom practices that support the claim that practitioners who are aware of racial and ethnic identity their own and others are better prepared to respond to students from their own background as well as those from other racial ethnic and cultural backgrounds Part I explains why the relationship among racial identity ethnic identity and human development is critical to schooling and provides the conceptual framework guiding and unifying subsequent chapters In Part II current research in racial and ethnic identity is presented and discussed Challenges and strategies for multicultural practices are the focus of Part III This book's goal is to help researchers practitioners and graduate students whose work directly intersects educational issues and the needs of children within the school environment to interpret and contextualize relevant research and theory and to bridge theory into practice Race, Ethnicity, and Education E. Race, Ethnicity and Education in Globalised Times Ruth Arber, 2008 Language across Difference Django Paris, 2011-07-28 Once a predominantly African American city South Vista opened the twenty first century with a large Latino a majority and a significant population of Pacific Islanders Using an innovative blend of critical ethnography and social language methodologies Paris offers the voices and experiences of South Vista youth as a window into how today's young people challenge and reinforce ethnic and linguistic difference in demographically changing urban schools and communities The ways African American language Spanish and Samoan are used within and across ethnicity in social and academic interactions text messages and youth authored rap lyrics show urban young people enacting both new and old visions of pluralist cultural spaces Paris illustrates how understanding youth communication ethnicity and identities in changing urban landscapes like South Vista offers crucial avenues for researchers and educators to push for more equitable schools and a more equitable society Ethnicity Matters MaryJo Benton Lee, 2006 Ethnicity Matters Rethinking How Black Hispanic and Indian Students Prepare for and Succeed in College focuses on four model programs that are highly effective in preparing students from underrepresented groups for college and in supporting these students through baccalaureate degree completion. The four model programs serve students from those ethnic groups that face the most serious problems of underrepresentation in American higher education: African Americans, Latinos, and American Indians. What sets these four programs apart from most other minority college recruitment and retention efforts is that they are built on this premise: Ethnic identity plays an empowering role in educational achievement.

The Schooling of Ethnic Minority Children and Youth Judith L. Meece, Beth Kurtz-Costes, 2001-02-01

First published in 2001, a major contributor to the increased diversity of America's schoolchildren is immigration. The United States is a nation of immigrants, but rates of immigration have varied considerably over different periods of its history. Currently, the United States is experiencing a period of high immigration, which began in the 1960s. Numerous reports indicate that schools are ill prepared for the increased diversity of America's school population. This aim of this edition is to provide a set of stimulating articles that highlight the current challenges associated with the schooling of ethnic minority children and to describe some potential directions for educational researchers both in the direction of pure theory development and testing and in more applied areas of intervention studies and school reform.
