House of Commons - Defence Committee: The Defence Implications of Possible Independence - Volume I: HC 198 Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Defence Committee, 2013-09-27 In this report the Defence Committee says the information published so far by the Scottish Government on the defence and security implications of Scottish independence falls far short of requirements The Committee also cannot currently judge the likely running costs of the proposed Scottish defence force given the limited information it has so far received The Committee is however unconvinced that the proposed budget of 2 5bn can support both the proposed Scottish defence force and the purchase of new equipment including fast jets and submarines The report seeks answers to the following questions how would a sovereign Scottish Government ensure the defence and security of an independent Scotland For what purposes would Scottish armed forces be used How would Scottish armed forces be structured and trained and where would they be based How much would it cost to equip support and train an independent Scotland s armed forces and how much of this could be procured and delivered domestically And how many jobs in the defence sector would be placed at risk The Committee also raises detailed questions about the proposed Scottish defence force the numbers and types of aircraft and naval vessels which would be needed and how they would be procured and maintained the numbers of combat troops the Scottish Government envisages including its plan to re-instate historic Scottish regiments and the availability of training facilities to maintain the appropriate professional standards In the event of independence the defence industry in Scotland would face a difficult future The Stationery Office Annual Catalogue Stationery Office (Great Britain), 2012 Technical Abstract Bulletin , 1968 Scientific and Technical Aerospace Reports , 1983 Debating Scotland Michael Keating, 2017 This book provides in depth analysis of the main issues of the Scottish independence referendum campaign of 2014 and features extensive original survey research Index to IEEE Publications Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers, 1997 Proceedings of the First International Airborne Remote Sensing Conference and Exhibition , 1994 The Record of the IEEE ... acknowledged that the resultant capability gap cannot be completely covered by an existing single asset or collection of assets The Committee is concerned that the MoD is sending mixed messages in respect of the need for a maritime patrol aircraft On one hand it says that there is no requirement for such an aircraft and that it is not funded or in the programme but on the other hand it acknowledges that its absence is a risk and something may need to be done The Committee is also concerned about the withdrawal of other maritime surveillance assets However the report acknowledges the work the MoD has undertaken to explore the potential options for maritime surveillance in the longer term such as unmanned systems lighter than air vehicles and space technology The report welcomes the establishment of the Maritime Security Oversight Group and the National Maritime Information Centre as first steps towards a more strategic and co ordinated output and as a way of mitigating some of the capability gaps
