The First Round in the Ladder of Education (Classic Reprint) James Brown, 2015-07-11 Excerpt from The First Round in the Ladder of Education Although I have neither been an instructor of a school nor a Professor in any Literary institution I have given considerable attention to the methods and principles of several books used both in common schools and Academies And I regret that I cannot speak of these works in terms of praise It is not my intention to give a catalogue of these books The following paragraphs taken from The Pictorial Primer designed as a First Book for Children in Families and Schools will serve as a fair specimen of the merits of all these productions Well Frederic what did you see at the fair today Do you not think you had better have been at home with your mother and sister Caroline What did you see to day is no better than what did you see next week And had have been is neither better nor worse than the rest of the Pictorial Primer which is almost a fac similie of the numerous books that are decent in nothing but mechanical execution This bird is an owl he has large eyes and can see in the night Here is a clear intimation that no creature except an owl can see in the night Nor is this all for it is here strongly implied that the owls capacity to see in the night is derived from the size of its eyes A substitute This is an owl and although he has good eyes he cannot see except in the night About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
