Bean,2018-02-05 Excerpt from Flagships Three In 1908 the writer published a smaller book dealing with an earlier stage of that same long progress of events which is the subject of this one That book was published at a time when a British naval force was the only defence of Australia and the British dominions in the Pacific And the words quoted above were the opening words of the last chapter in the book the dream to which it all led up They may well stand as the first words of the first chapter in this one For the dream they describe is coming true word by word line by line in such fashion as neither he who dreamed it nor anyone else could ever have hoped to behold Within five years it has fallen to the writer to recast and extend the same story in order to add to it an already accomplished sequel For this book recounts the birth of the latest of a very famous and ancient and heroic line of Navies the coming of a first born to the British Navy Or if the United States Navy should be counted as the Royal Navy's first child then it deals with the coming of the second child It is with those two elders and of course especially with the great mother navy of which it really forms an outlying member that the Royal Australian Navy will always be compared The writer has used such opportunities as have come his way to obtain some insight into the three of them About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works The Ladies' Home Journal ,1898 BEANS (CLASSIC REPRINT). HARRY RICHARD.
