Davis, 1985 Lists over 5 200 titles of books published by American poets between 1973 and 1983 Cold War Poetry Edward Brunner, 2001 Mainstream American poetry of the 1950s has long been dismissed as deliberately indifferent to its cultural circumstances In this penetrating study Edward Brunner breaks the placid surface of the hollow decade to reveal a poetry sharply responsive to issues of its time Cold War Poetry considers the fifties poem as part of a dual cultural project as proof of the competency of the newly professionalized poet and as a user friendly way of initiating a newly educated upwardly mobile postwar audience into high culture Brunner revisits Richard Wilbur Randall Jarrell and other acknowledged leaders of the period as well as neglected writers such as Rosalie Moore V R Lang Katherine Hoskins Melvin B Tolson and Hyam Plutzik He also examines the one sided authority of the male dominated book review process the ostracizing of female and minority poets poetic fads such as the ubiquitous sestina and the power of the classroom anthology to establish criteria for reading Attributing the gradual change in poetic style during the 1950s to the slow collapse of the authority of the state Brunner shows how a secretive anxious poetics developed in the shadow of a disabled government He recontextualizes the much maligned domestic verse of the 1950s reading its shift toward the private sphere and the recurrent image of the child as a reflection of the powerlessness of the post nuclear citizen Through a close examination of poetry written about the Bomb he delineates how poets registered their growing sense of cosmic disorder in coded language resorting to subterfuge to continue their critique in the face of sanctions levied against those who questioned government policies Brilliantly decoding the politics embedded in the poetry of an ostensibly apolitical time Cold War Poetry provides a powerful rereading of a pivotal decade The Canterbury Tales and Faerie Queene; with Other Poems of Chaucer and Spenser Geoffrey Chaucer, 1870 The First Light and Other Poems Tristan Antony Bolton, Alembic Press (Oxford, England),1979 The Choice Collection of the Works of Alfred, Lord Tennyson, Formed by A.E.
