Exploring New Roles For Librarians The Research Informationist Lisa Federer:

Exploring New Roles for Librarians Lisa Federer, 2014-03-01 Librarians have been providing support to researchers for many years typically with a focus on responding to researchers needs for access to the existing literature However librarians skills and expertise make them uniquely suited to provide a wide range of assistance to researchers across the entire research process from conception of the research question to archiving of collected data at the project s conclusion In response to increasingly stringent demands on researchers to share their data and as computationally intensive and primarily data driven scientific methods begin to take the place of traditional lab based research the research informationist has emerged as a new information profession With a background in library and information sciences as well as expertise in best practices for data management grant funder policies and informatics tools the research informationist is capable of implementing a full suite of research support services This book will discuss how the research informationist role has developed out of the previously established clinical informationist model and how it expands on the model of embedded librarianship The book will also examine core competencies for the successful research informationist and the training and preparation necessary for students in library and information sciences programs as well as currently practicing librarians Finally this book will consider how research informationists can form collaborative partnerships with research teams and build their services outside the walls of the library citing practical examples of the types of support research informationists can offer

Information Verification in the Digital Age Nora Martin, 2022-06-01 This book will contemplate the nature of our participatory digital media culture the diversity of actors involved and how the role of the news librarian has evolved from information gatekeeper to knowledge networker collaborating and facilitating content creation with print and broadcast media professionals It will explore how information professionals assist in the newsroom drawing on the author s experiential knowledge as an embedded research librarian in the media industry The past decade has seen significant changes in the media landscape Large media outlets have traditionally controlled news and information flows with everyone obtaining news via these dominant channels In the digital world the nature of what constitutes news has changed in fundamental ways Social media and technologies such as crowdsourcing now play a pivotal role in how broadcast media connects and engages with their audiences The book will focus on news reporting in the age of social media examining the significance of verification and evaluating social media content from a journalistic and Information Science IS perspective With such an emphasis on using social media for research it is imperative to have mechanisms in place to make sure that information is authoritative before passing it on to a client as correct and accurate Technology innovation and the 24 7 news cycle are driving forces compelling information professionals and journalists alike to adapt and learn new skills The shift to tablets and smartphones for communication news and entertainment has dramatically changed the library and media landscape Finally we will consider automated journalism and examine future roles for news library professionals in the age of digital social media

Near Field Communication Sheli McHugh, Kristen Yarmey, 2022-05-31 Near Field Communication is a radio frequency technology that allows objects such as mobile phones computers tags or posters to exchange information wirelessly across a small distance This report on the progress of Near Field Communication reviews the features and functionality of the technology and summarizes the broad spectrum of its current and anticipated applications We explore the development of NFC technology in recent years introduce the major stakeholders in the NFC ecosystem and project its movement toward mainstream adoption Several examples of early implementation of NFC in libraries are highlighted primarily involving the use of NFC to enhance discovery by linking books or other physical objects with digital information about library resources but also including applications of NFC to collection management and self checkout Future uses of NFC in libraries such as smart posters or other enhanced outreach are envisioned as well as the potential for the touch paradigm and Internet of things to transform the ways in which library users interact with the information environment Conscious of the privacy and security of our patrons we also address continuing concerns related to NFC technology and its expected applications recommending caution awareness and education as immediate next steps for librarians

Essential Leadership Skills for Health Sciences Information Professionals Janet Crum, Annabelle V. Nuñez, 2023-04-04 Selected as a 2025 Doody's Core Title Effective leadership and management are essential to a successful thriving health sciences library yet often librarians are promoted into leadership roles with little to no training and support Then swamped with the demands of their new positions they struggle to find time to read multiple books on a leadership topic or attend long and expensive leadership training programs Essential Leadership Skills for Health Sciences Information Professionals is intended to help fill that gap by making the accumulated wisdom of experienced leaders available in a concise easy to digest format Each chapter is written by an experienced library leader and provides essential background and practical actionable advice on eleven essential leadership topics the health sciences library environment building relationships and engaging stakeholders setting direction building and leading the team engaging your staff leading with a focus on diversity equity and inclusion planning and managing projects managing change decision making and problem solving crisis leadership and managing and taking care of yourself Busy leaders and aspiring leaders can learn essential information about a leadership topic quickly then explore cited and recommended resources as needed to build deeper expertise While examples are focused on the unique needs and environments of health sciences libraries much of the material will be useful to leaders in all types of libraries Today's libraries must navigate challenging and rapidly changing environments and compete for talent in a tight and highly competitive labor market Effective and compassionate leadership is essential for libraries and the people who work in them to thrive in these conditions Essential Leadership Skills for Health Sciences Information Professionals is designed to help aspiring new and experienced leaders develop the skills to build and sustain healthy innovative flexible and resilient organizations and work environments that create value for their employees and the populations they serve

New Roles for Research Librarians Hilde Daland, Kari-Mette Walmann-Hidle, 2016-05-20 New Roles for Research Librarians Meeting the Expectations for Research Support presents strategies librarians can use to adapt to the new conditions and growing expectations that are emerging from students and researchers Even if they have never completed a PhD or even been engaged in independent research themselves this book will provide a new roadmap on how to deal with the new work environment The book provides different approaches that include the library in the research process an area that is often neglected by researchers during their planning and strategic work on research projects Users will find content that offers tactics on how to create a new dialogue between the librarian and the postgraduate student along with comprehensive discussions on different starting points and how communication and collaboration can help reach the best of both worlds Explores the new roles available for research librarians and how they can be integral parts of research Provides a new roadmap on how to deal with the new work environment that now exists between librarians and researchers Discusses the development and systemizing of research support services and strategies Offers insights into the collaboration between the librarian and PhD candidates New Roles for Research Librarians Hilde Drivenes Daland, Kari-Mette Walmann-Hidle, 2016

Finding Your Seat at the Table Susan M. Harnett, Lauren P. Cantwell-Jurkovic, 2022-02-19 Service on Institutional Review Boards IRB and Institutional Animal Care and Use Committees IACUC is an uncommon activity for librarians Even librarians who participate in institutional research activities in a supportive capacity or conduct their own original research as scholars themselves and are familiar with the IRB IACUC research approval process they may hesitate to participate more fully with these boards There may be a perception that the work of the IRB and IACUC is too scientifically complex for librarians without an appropriate background Library administrators may not advocate for librarian inclusion on the board for fear of additional burdens on the librarian's time and university administrators might need some convincing of the librarian's suitability to perform this work. This book provides librarians with foundational knowledge of the IRB and IACUC, describes the work of these important committees and expands librarians' conceptualization and knowledge of opportunities to create services and partnerships through participation. The book provides a progressively more comprehensive understanding of the work of these committees. Parts I and II discuss IRB and IACUC respectively their history, functions, and membership. Part III highlights expanding roles for librarians on IRB and IACUC and in institutional research activities. A special feature of this section describes the experiences of librarians in their own words who work with IRB or IACUC, what they have learned, how they have used their experiences to create partnerships and market library services, and what role they see for libraries and librarians in institutional research.

Libraries in the Information Age Denise K. Fourie, Nancy E. Loe, 2016-05-23 The book Library Media Connection cited as something all librarians need to have on their shelves is now thoroughly revised for today's 21st century library environment. Covering both technology and library practices, the title has been a go-to text for librarians and library school students since 2002. Since the second edition of this must-have book was published in late 2009, libraries have undergone profound changes primarily linked to advances in technology. We've seen the debut of RDA, the release of new Pew Research library and Internet use data, and the establishment of digital repositories, community MakerSpaces, and community reads programs. Of course, libraries have also been affected by the expanding use of social media. This thoroughly updated title addresses all these changes and more, bringing you up to date on the monumental shifts impacting librarianship. The book is designed to introduce LIS students to the profession, preparing them to enter an exciting and evolving world. It clarifies the changing roles and responsibilities of library professionals, new paradigms for evaluating information, and characteristics and functions of today's library personnel. Among other subjects, chapters cover preparing materials for use, circulation, reference services, ethics in the information age, Internet trends, and job search basics. References, websites, and publications at the end of every chapter point to further resources, and appendices supply information such as policies, the library bill of rights, and the Freedom to Read statement.

Data Information Literacy Jake Carlson, Lisa R. Johnston, 2015 Data information literacy is introduced as a new area of opportunity for librarians seeking to educate the next generation of scholars about best practices when working with research data in a way that is sustainable over the long term.

Dynamic Research Support in Academic Libraries Starr Hoffman, 2016-03-16 This inspiring book will enable academic librarians to develop excellent research and instructional services and create a library culture that encompasses exploration, learning, and collaboration. Higher education and academic libraries are in a period of rapid evolution. Technology, pedagogical shifts, and programmatic changes in education mean that libraries must continually evaluate and adjust their services to meet new needs. Research and learning across institutions is becoming more team-based, crossing disciplines and dependent on increasingly sophisticated and varied data. To provide valuable services in this shifting diverse environment libraries must think about new ways to support research on their campuses including collaborating across library and departmental boundaries This book is intended to enrich and expand your vision of research support in academic libraries by Inspiring you to think creatively about new services Sparking ideas of potential collaborations within and outside the library increasing awareness of functional areas that are potential key partners Providing specific examples of new services as well as the decision making and implementation process Encouraging you to take a broad view of research support rather than thinking of research and instruction services metadata creation and data services etc as separate initiatives Dynamic Research Support in Academic Libraries provides illustrative examples of emerging models of research support and is contributed to by library practitioners from across the world The book is divided into three sections Part I Training and Infrastructure which describes the role of staff development and library spaces in research support Part II Data Services and Data Literacy which sets out why the rise of research data services in universities is critical to supporting the current provision of student skills that will help develop them as data literate citizens Part III Research as a Conversation which discusses academic library initiatives to support the dissemination discovery and critical analysis of research This is an essential guide for librarians and information professionals involved in supporting research and scholarly communication as well as library administrators and students studying library and information science Embedded Librarians Cassandra Kvenild,Kaijsa Calkins,2011 Showcases strategies for successfully embedding librarians and library services across higher education Chapters feature case studies and reports on projects from a wide variety of colleges and universities from publisher description The New Instruction Librarian Candice Benjes-Small,Rebecca K. Miller,2016-11-16 The sheer amount of resources on the subject of information literacy is staggering Yet a comprehensive but concise roadmap specifically for librarians who are new to instruction or who are charged with training someone who is has remained elusive Until now This book cuts through the jargon and rhetoric to ease the transition into library instruction offering support to all those involved including library supervisors colleagues and trainees Grounded in research on teaching and learning from numerous disciplines not just library literature this book shows how to set up new instruction librarians for success with advice on completing an environmental scan strategies for recruiting efficiently and a training checklist walks readers step by step through training a new hire or someone new to instruction complete with hands on activities and examples explores the different roles an instruction librarian is usually expected to play such as educator project manager instructional designer and teaching partner demonstrates the importance of performance evaluation and management including assessment and continuing education both formal and informal and provides guided reading lists for further in depth study of a topic A starter kit for librarians new to instruction this resource will be useful for training coordinators as well as for self training The Successful Academic Librarian Gwen Meyer Gregory,2005 The role of academic librarian is far from cut and dried There are numerous job classifications and widely varying academic focuses and cultures to contend with While every academic librarian is expected to meet the research needs of an institution's faculty and students many are expected to assume other obligations as part of a faculty or tenure system Given the many variants library school alone cannot prepare individuals for every aspect and flavor of academic librarianship and intrepid librarians who find themselves in new places and positions face unique challenges The Successful Academic Librarian is an antidote to the stress and burnout that almost every academic librarian experiences at one time or another In its pages Gwen Meyer Gregory and nearly 20 of her peers take a practical approach to a range of critical topics Their advice war stories tips techniques and inspiration will help you thrive in your academic library career from back cover

Translating Expertise Marisa L. Conte, 2016-08-29 In 2005 the National Institutes of Health NIH announced the Clinical and Translational Science Award CTSA program an institution based grant intended to re engineer the clinical research enterprise speeding the time from pre clinical discovery to the development of therapies to improve human health As universities competed for CTSA funding and often struggled to develop or recalibrate institutional infrastructures and research support services the face of pre clinical and clinical research changed dramatically These changes and their intended and unintended consequences introduced the possibility of new roles for health sciences librarians creating novel opportunities to engage with researchers research administrators and community members as active partners in the research enterprise This book demystifies translational research by providing a comprehensive historical background and context on the CTSA program including the impact of funding reductions and administrative changes The highlight of the book are case studies by librarians from CTSA Consortium institutions These case studies including successes challenges and lessons learned will detail specific routes to librarian involvement in translational research including collection development creating and maintaining relationships with researchers and administrators instruction and training data management team science and more The variety of case studies including challenges and lessons learned will help libraries that are looking for ways to engage the translational research audiences at their institutions or those who currently work with CTS but face new challenges due to declining federal research funds shifting institutional priorities or other factors The book will not be a comprehensive accounting of librarian engagement at each institutions but rather a sample of best practices to help librarians develop programs and relationships relevant to translational research and a look at newly emerging opportunities to leverage skills in information organization and dissemination
