Forest Pattern And Ecological Process A Synthesis Of 25 Years Of Research:

Forest Pattern and Ecological Process David Lindenmayer, 2009 Forest Pattern and Ecological Process is a major synthesis of 25 years of intensive research about the montane ash forests of Victoria which support the world s tallest flowering plants and several of Australia s most high profile threatened and or endangered species It draws together major insights based on over 170 published scientific papers and books offering a previously unrecognised set of perspectives of how forests function The book combines key strands of research on wildfires biodiversity conservation logging conservation management climate change and basic forest ecology and management It is divided into seven sections introduction and background forest cover and the composition of the forest the structure of the forest animal occurrence disturbance regimes forest management and overview and future directions Illustrated with more than 200 photographs and line drawings Forest Pattern and Ecological Process is an essential reference for forest researchers resource managers conservation and wildlife biologists ornithologists and mammalogists and policy makers as well as general readers with interests in wildlife and forests Features The extent of synthesis at a range of key levels The depth of new perspectives on forest processes and ecological patterns in one of the world's truly great forests the montane ash forests. The breadth of past and very current research that is both pure and applied The range of key topics and how they are inter twined wildfires biodiversity conservation logging conservation management climate change and basic forest ecology and management Effective Ecological Monitoring Gene Likens, David Lindenmayer, 2018-05-01 Long term monitoring programs are fundamental to understanding the natural environment and managing major environmental problems Yet they are often done very poorly and ineffectively This second edition of the highly acclaimed Effective Ecological Monitoring describes what makes monitoring programs successful and how to ensure that long term monitoring studies persist The book has been fully revised and updated but remains concise illustrating key aspects of effective monitoring with case studies and examples It includes new sections comparing surveillance based and question based monitoring analysing environmental observation networks and provides examples of adaptive monitoring Based on the authors 80 years of collective experience in running long term research and monitoring programs Effective Ecological Monitoring is a valuable resource for the natural resource management ecological and environmental science and policy communities Biodiversity and Environmental Change Emma Burns, David Lindenmayer, Andrew Lowe, Nicole Thurgate, 2014-02-06 Annotation Long term ecological data are critical for informing long term trends in biodiversity and trends in environmental change The Terrestrial Ecosystem Research Network TERN is a major initiative of the Australian Government and one of its key areas of investment is to provide funding for a network of long term ecological research plots around Australia LTERN This book highlights some of the temporal changes in the environment and or in biodiversity that have occurred in different ecosystems ranging from tropical rainforests wet eucalypt forests and alpine regions through to rangelands and deserts Many important trends and changes are documented and they often provide new insights that were previously poorly understood or unknown These data are precisely the kinds of data so desperately needed to better quantify the temporal trajectories in the environment and biodiversity in Australia

Mountain Ash David Lindenmayer, David Blair, Lachlan McBurney, Sam Banks, 2015-11-02 Mountain Ash draws together exciting new findings on the effects of fire and on post fire ecological dynamics following the 2009 wildfires in the Mountain Ash forests of the Central Highlands of Victoria The book integrates data on forests carbon fire dynamics and other factors building on 6 years of high quality multi faceted research coupled with 25 years of pre fire insights Topics include the unexpected effects of fires of varying severity on populations of large old trees and their implications for the dynamics of forest ecosystems relationships between forest structure condition and age and their impacts on fire severity relationships between logging and fire severity the unexpectedly low level of carbon stock losses from burned forests including those burned at very high severity impacts of fire at the site and landscape levels on arboreal marsupials persistence of small mammals and birds on burned sites including areas subject to high severity fire and its implications for understanding how species in this group exhibit post fire recovery patterns With spectacular images of the post fire environment Mountain Ash will be an important reference for scientists and students with interests in biodiversity forests and fire Journal of Forest Research, 2011 Long-term Ecological Research in the United States Keith Van Cleve, Stephanie The Island Press Bibliography of Environmental Literature Yale University.
