Music in Esports Eulalia Febrer-Coll,2025-07-21 This book invites the reader to expand their idea of esports as an independent niche and consider it an integral part of a growing multi and transmedia ecosystem that includes the global entertainment industry where music plays an essential role The music present in and around esports games is an integral part of how they are communicated and mediated and as such holds a central role in binding their narratives cohesively and coherently to appeal to their audiences Popular music theory is placed at the foundation of the issues raised in the chapters as it is taken as a cornerstone for linking the esports international scene with the music industry This text uses specific case studies from popular esports to support and illustrate each chapter including League of Legends Counter Strike and Fortnite This book will be of great interest to researchers and students in the fields of esports game design and development musicology and media studies

The Oxford Handbook of Radio and Podcasting Michele Hilmes,Andrew Bottomley,2024 Radio today remains the most accessible and widely available communication medium worldwide despite technological shifts and a host of upstart challengers Since its origins in the 1920s radio has innovated a new world of sound culture now expanded into the digital realm of podcasting that is enabling the medium to reach larger audiences than ever before Yet radio remains one of the least studied of the major areas of communication arts due largely to its broadcast era ephemerality With the advent of digital technology radio's past has been unlocked and soundwork is exploding as a creative field creating a lively and diverse sonic present while simultaneously making critical historical analysis possible at last This volume offers newly commissioned chapters giving readers a wide ranging view of current critical work in the fields of radio and podcasting employing specific case studies to analyze sound media's engagement with the arts with the factual world of news talk and documentary programming as a primary means of forging community along with national transnational and alternative identities and as a subject of academic and critical research Its historical scope extends from radio's earliest days through its mid twentieth century decades as the powerful voice of nations and empires onto its transformation into a secondary medium during the television era and into the expanding digital present Over the course of 37 chapters it provides evidence of the sound media's flexibility and adaptation across diverse cultures by examining radio's past and present uses in regions including the United States Canada Britain Australia Poland China Korea Kenya Angola and Mozambique South Asia and the Caribbean Contributors include historians and media scholars as well as sound artists and radio podcast producers Notably companion links to digital quotations from works analyzed are included in many chapters along with chapter audiographies offering links to further listening Throughout The Oxford Handbook of Radio and Podcasting connects radio's broadcast past to its digital present and traces themes of creativity identity community nation and transnationality across more than a century of audio media

Networked Music Cultures Raphaël Nowak,Andrew Whelan,2016-09-16 This collection presents a range of essays on contemporary music distribution and consumption patterns and practices The contributors to the collection use a variety of theoretical and methodological approaches discussing the consequences and effects of the digital distribution of music as it is manifested in specific cultural contexts. The widespread circulation of music in digital form has far-reaching consequences, not least for how we understand the practices of sourcing and consuming music, the political economy of the music industries, and the relationships between format and aesthetics. Through close empirical engagement with a variety of contexts and analytical frames, the contributors to this collection demonstrate that the changes associated with networked music are always situationally specific, sometimes contentious, and often unexpected in their implications. With chapters covering topics such as the business models of streaming, audio policy, and professional discourses around the changing digital music market, the creative affordances of format and circulation, and local practices of accessing and engaging with music in a range of distinct cultural contexts, the book presents an overview of the themes, topics, and approaches found in current social and cultural research on the relations between music and digital technology.

Rethinking the Music Business Guy Morrow, Daniel Nordgård, Peter Tschmuck, 2022-09-07 COVID-19 had a global impact on health, communities, and the economy. As a result of COVID-19, music festivals, gigs, and events were canceled or postponed across the world. This directly affected the incomes and practices of many artists and the revenue for many entities in the music business. Despite this crisis, however, there are pre-existing trends in the music business: the rise of the streaming economy, technological change, virtual and augmented reality, blockchain, etc., and new copyright legislation. Some of these trends were impacted by the COVID-19 crisis, while others were not. This book addresses these challenges and trends by following a two-pronged approach: the first part focuses on the impact of COVID-19 on the music business, and the second features general perspectives. Throughout both parts case studies bring various themes to life The contributors address issues within the music business before and during COVID 19 Using various critical approaches for studying the music business this research based book addresses key questions concerning music contexts rights data and COVID 19 Rethinking the music business is a valuable study aid for undergraduate and postgraduate students in subjects including the music business cultural economics cultural management creative and cultural industries studies business and management studies and media and communications
