Fundamentals of Court Interpretation Roseann Dueñas González, Victoria Félice Vásquez, Holly Mikkelson, 1991 This volume explores court interpreting from legal linguistic and pragmatic vantages It standardizes practice among court interpreters by providing useful guidelines for the judiciary attorneys and other court personnel Because of the growing use of interpreters there is an increasing demand for guidelines on the proper utilizations of court interpreters This book has become the standard reference book worldwide Common Law in an Uncommon Courtroom Eva N.S. Ng, 2018-11-15

This book takes you into a common law courtroom which is in no way similar to any other courtroom where common law is practised. This uniqueness is characterised in particular by the use of English as the trial language in a predominantly Cantonese speaking society and by the presence of other bilinguals in court thus presenting specific challenges for the interpreters who work in it and at times rendering the interpretation service superfluous. This study inter alia problematises judges' intervention in the court proceedings, Chinese witnesses testifying in English as well as English language trials heard by Chinese jurors. It demonstrates how the use of chuchotage proves to be inadequate and inappropriate in the Hong Kong courtroom where interpreting in an English language trial is arguably provided to cater for the need of the linguistic majority. This book is useful to interpreters, language educators, legal professionals, forensic linguists and policy makers alike.

Translation and Interpreting as Social Interaction Claire Y. Shih, Caiwen Wang, 2024-01-11. Adopting the tripartite theory of social psychology as its theoretical framework, this book advocates that the three components of social interaction affect behaviour and cognition underpin the daily activities of translators and interpreters. In particular, it argues that the affect or emotion of translators and interpreters should not be overlooked or treated as a separate entity but as a crucial link between their mental process, cognition and physical process, behaviour. This central theme of the intertwining nature of the affect, behaviour and cognition of translators and interpreters is examined theoretically, empirically and methodologically with contributions from around the world featuring literary translation, translator training and interpreters' practice. It is a timely contribution to the field of Translation Process Research where affect is increasingly recognised as playing a key role in translation and interpreting phenomena.

Capturing Talk: The Institutional Practices Surrounding the Transcription of Spoken Language Martha Komter, Helen Fraser, Emma Richardson, Felicity Deamer, Kate Haworth, Debbie Loakes, 2024-05-22. Across a range of institutional settings, practitioners and professionals are eliciting and capturing spoken talk from clients. Sarangi (1998) transcribing that talk and later repurposing the transcripts in place of the original interaction. This Research Topic seeks both to shed light on this often overlooked institutional process and to encourage further linguistic input into this area of professional practice. Transcription is almost always an institutional practice (Park Bucholtz 2009) providing a written record of spoken interaction to be used by another party at a later date in another setting or context. There are a number of underappreciated features and consequences of this transformational process which we hope this Research Topic will expose and examine.

Interpretation James Nolan, 2005. This book provides a structured syllabus and an overview of interpretation accompanied by exercises in the main aspects of the art. It is meant as a practical guide for interpreters and as a complement to interpreter training programmes, particularly for students preparing for conference interpreting in international governmental and business settings.
