investigates activists strategy of blocking fossil fuel infrastructure often in alliance with Indigenous groups and examines the political and environmental outcomes of these actions After discussing the oil sands policy regime and the relevant political institutions in Canada and the United States Hoberg analyzes in detail four anti pipeline campaigns examining the controversies over the Keystone XL the most well known of these movements and the first one to use infrastructure resistance as a core strategy the Northern Gateway pipeline the Trans Mountain pipeline and the Energy East pipeline He then considers the resistance dilemma the potential of place based activism to threaten the much needed transition to renewable energy He examines several episodes of resistance to clean energy infrastructure in eastern Canada and the United States Finally Hoberg describes some innovative processes of energy decision making including strategic environment assessment and cumulative impact assessment looking at cases in British Columbia and Lower Alberta

Networking the Bloc Klara Kemp-Welch, 2019-02-12 The story of the experimental zeitgeist in Eastern European art seen through personal encounters pioneering dialogues collaborative projects and cultural exchanges Throughout the 1970s a network of artists emerged to bridge the East West divide and the no less rigid divides between the countries of the Eastern bloc Originating with a series of creative initiatives by artists art historians and critics and centered in places like Budapest Pozna and Prague this experimental dialogue involved Western participation but is today largely forgotten in the West In Networking the Bloc Klara Kemp Welch vividly recaptures this lost chapter of art history documenting an elaborate web of artistic connectivity that came about through a series of personal encounters pioneering dialogues collaborative projects and cultural exchanges Countering the conventional Cold War narrative of Eastern bloc isolation Kemp Welch shows how artistic ideas were relayed among like minded artists across ideological boundaries and national frontiers Much of the work created was collaborative and personal encounters were at its heart Drawing on archival documents and interviews with participants Kemp Welch focuses on the exchanges and projects themselves rather than the personalities involved Each of the projects she examines relied for its realization on a network of contributors She looks first at the mobilization of the network from 1964 to 1972 exploring five pioneering cases a friendship between a Slovak artist and a French critic an artistic credo an exhibition a conceptual proposition and a book She then charts a series of way stations for experimental art from the Soviet bloc between 1972 and 1976 points of distribution between studios private homes galleries and certain cities Finally she investigates convergences a succession of shared exhibitions and events in the second half of the 1970s in locations ranging from Prague to Milan to Moscow Networking the Bloc Kemp Welch invites us to rethink the art of the late Cold War period from Eastern European perspectives Effective Advocacy Mary Alice Haddad, 2021-03-23 An examination of successful environmental advocacy strategies in East Asia that shows how advocacy can be effective under difficult conditions The countries of East Asia China Japan South Korea and Taiwan are home to some of the most active and effective environmental advocates in the world And the governments of these countries have adopted a range of innovative policies to fight pollution and climate change Japan leads the world in emissions standards China has become the world's largest producer of photovoltaic panels and Taiwan and Korea have undertaken major green initiatives In this book Mary Alice Haddad examines the advocacy strategies that persuaded citizens governments and businesses of these countries to change their behavior

Can We Price Carbon? Barry G. Rabe, 2018-04-06 A political science analysis of the feasibility and sustainability of carbon pricing drawing from North American European and Asian case studies Climate change economists generally agree is best addressed by putting a price on the carbon content of fossil fuels by taxing carbon by cap and trade systems or other methods But what about the politics of carbon pricing Do political realities render carbon pricing impracticable In this book Barry Rabe offers the first major political science analysis of the feasibility and sustainability of carbon pricing drawing upon a series of real world attempts to price carbon over the last two decades in North America Europe and Asia Rabe asks whether these policies have proven politically viable and if adopted whether they survive political shifts and managerial challenges over time The entire policy life cycle is examined from adoption through advanced implementation on a range of pricing policies including not only carbon taxes and cap and trade but also such alternative methods as taxing fossil fuel extraction These case studies Rabe argues show that despite the considerable political difficulties carbon pricing can be both feasible and durable

Carbon Captured Matt O. Mildenberger, 2020-02-18 A comparative examination of domestic climate politics that offers a theory for cross national differences in domestic climate policymaking Climate change threatens the planet and yet policy responses have varied widely across nations Some countries have undertaken ambitious programs to stave off climate disaster others have done little and still others have passed policies that were later rolled back In this book Matt O. Mildenberger opens the black box of domestic climate politics examining policy making trajectories in several countries and offering a theoretical explanation for national differences in the climate policy process Mildenberger introduces the concept of double representation when carbon polluters enjoy political representation on both the left through industrial unions fearful of job loss and the right through industrial business associations fighting policy costs and argues that different climate policy approaches can be explained by the interaction of climate policy preferences and domestic institutions He illustrates his theory with detailed histories of climate politics in Norway the United States and Australia along with briefer discussions of policies in Germany Japan the United Kingdom and Canada He shows that Norway systematically shielded politically connected industrial polluters from costs beginning with its pioneering carbon tax the United States after the failure of carbon reduction legislation finally acted on climate reform through a series of Obama administration executive actions and Australia's Labor and Green parties enacted an emissions trading scheme which was subsequently repealed by a conservative Liberal party government Ultimately Mildenberger argues for the importance of political considerations in understanding the climate policymaking process and discusses possible future policy directions
